CITY LIKELY TO SEEK OUTSIDE ADVISER FOR TRANSIT SURVEY

Mayor Thinks Local Engineers Lack Experience to Make Them Available.

The new Transportation Survey Commission probably will have to retain an out-of-town engineer to advise it on technical matters. Mayor Miller said today in announcing that he will confer with E. J. Russell, chairman of the City Plan Commission, on possible candidates.

He had been ordered to appear before Inspector Walton in the latter's private office on the third floor at Headquarters to explain his conduct. Accompanied by Sgt. Oliver Kinsley, assistant to Walton, Patrolman Calvin went in a few minutes later at City Hospital.

The Mayor expressed the belief that there were no engineers locally available with enough experience in transportation work to be accepted for the place. He has asked C. E. Smith, vice president of the New York New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and former consulting engineer for the city, to recommend engineers for the place.

The commission, the personnel of which had not been announced, will begin to function July 26, a month after the signing of the bill yesterday. The bill carries an appropriation of $50,000 for expenses of the survey.

VESTITUS AGAIN IN ERUPTION; TOURISTS FLOCK TO VOLCANO

Crystallized Fragments Hurled onto Road Leading to Crater; Lava Filling Cone as in 1906. By the Associated Press.

RESINA, Italy, June 27.—Vesuvius was in eruption today. Since no fear of disaster was felt, tourists were flocking to this town at the foot of the volcano. Small crystallized fragments fell on the road leading to the volcano, but visitors kept on toward the summit in spite of the unfriendly air.

"Is this true?" Inspector Walton asked the officer. "Well, part of it is true," Patrolman Calvin replied. "But I didn't get as much whisky as she did."

Inspector Walton directed Sgt. May to take the patrolman into his office, where he was to make out a report stating his version of the affair.

The two officers stepped out together. When just inside the door of the next room, Patrolman Calvin saw his service revolver and shot himself behind the right ear. He dropped to the floor unconscious.

Prior to the incident of last night, Patrolman Calvin had a good record. He joined the force Oct. 19, 1925, and was made a patrolman March 12, 1926, and attached to the Mounted District. He resided at 5769 Theodore Avenue with his wife and two children.

SMITH UNMOVED BY UPROAR OVER RELIGIOUS REFERENCE

Smith, however, when Correspondents' Lobbies Board in Hall to Methodist Camp Meeting. ALBANY, N. Y., June 27.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, listened with impulsive face today to radio accounts of the Democratic National Convention uproar over mention of religious liberty.

The Governor was not listening when Senator Robinson interpolated in a prepared speech the Jeffersonian quotation that started the demonstration, but after adjournment he stood beside his radio while several correspondents related the details.

When one of the correspondents, after telling what he thought, would be the effect of the injection of the religious note on the prospects of the Catholic Governor of New York, likened the smell of the new planks boards of the Convention hall to that of a Methodist camp meeting, the Governor threw back his head and laughed.

CONVENTION HEARS PLEA TO AVOID PARTY RIFT ON PROHIBITION

ROBINSON ALSO ASKS FOR FARM RELIEF PROMISE

Another Short Session Held With Prospect of Nominating Speeches Tonight.

vany, standing guard at the staff, would allow it to be carried into the line.

The Alabama and the Virginia standard stood out as a lonely protest—immovable trees in a storm that had uprooted all their fellows.

It was a great show—typically Democratic show—reminiscent of the stormy scenes enacted four years ago at the Madison Square Garden. There was today, however, a significant difference. The Smith cause rode on the crest of the storm.

Typically Democratic, too, was the slowness with which the business of the convention got underway. It seems impossible for the Democrats to hold a convention without turning it into a carnival. The session was supposed to start at noon, but it was not till 12:45 that Temporary Chairman, Bowers called it to order.

Senator Robinson's Speech.

After the opening formalities came the address of the permanent chairman, Senator Robinson. It was a compact, forceful speech, filled with excellent ammunition for the campaign orators who will take the stump for Smith.

The harmony note ran through it all. Nowhere in it was there comfort for those who are trying to stem the Smith tide. In the approval of the foreign policies of President Wilson there was, indeed, the opposite of comfort for the tried followers.

Robinson pleaded for "the exercise of sound judgment and common sense in the nomination of candidates."

This, he said, together with the demonstration of fidelity to recognized party principals, was the road to be followed if the party was to harmonize its differences—the road that must be followed if it was to win the election.

Without naming Hoover, he struck at the Republican nominee in this sentence: "When this convention has nominated its candidate there will be no doubt of his eligibility to serve under the constitution of the United States."

That was a reference to the attack which had been made on Hoover's eligibility because of his long residence abroad.

The crowd caught the allusion and applauded. There were cheers for the speaker's declaration that the Democratic party was the champion of personal liberty and the opponent of centralization of government, and cheers again for his eulogy of Wilson as an exponent of the ideals of justice and equality.

In passages along the same lines, as Claude Bowers' stinging speech last night, Robinson attacked the administration of Harding and Coolidge as "indefensible from any standpoint" and asked the voters to compare the record of "crime and fraud" with the eight-year record of Woodrow Wilson. Lashing the Republicans for the raising of "false issues" he declared that the boasted prosperity under Coolidge was a sham. He gave figures on the number of bank and commercial failures in the last few years. Agricultural, he said, had steadily declined since the Wilson administration.

Ways to Help Farmers.

Robinson named three ways by which the economic party of agriculture with other industries might be promoted—by tariff revision, by export debentures or by the adoption of the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill. He said that the farmers of the Middle West were opposed to Hoover because of his leadership against the McNary-Haugen bill.

Robinson scored the "bomastic boaster" of the chairman of the convention at Kansas City and "the stupefying veracity and reckless perversions of the Republican platform."

He asserted that the "puerile" foreign policy under Harding and Coolidge had made our Government unpopular abroad and caused the American flag to be regarded with suspicion and contempt."

But the most significant words of the chairman, aside from his appeal for religious tolerance, were those relating to prohibition.

Here again he spoke for harmony. He reminded the wets that "prohibition had not heretofore been made a partisan issue" and the drys that "the Democratic party is not a prohibition party." He said flatly there should be no wet plank in the platform and he warned the drys by indirection that they should not go too far in their demands.

Would Not Waste Chance.

"Let us disappoint the expectations of our adversaries," he counseled, "and realize the hopes of faithful Democrats throughout the nation, who look to us for the exercise of prudence and wisdom. We must demonstrate willingness to enter into honorable compromises and to make personal sacrifices; otherwise, the opportunity which is auspicious—the opportunity for victory—will be wasted."

Finally, having in mind the criticism which has been visited upon the convention for its dilatory methods, he said that hereafter the session would start on time.

After some further business the convention, on the motion of Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York recessed to 7:15 tonight. If the Mayor manages to get there on time, there will be, indeed, good reason to believe that the dilatory Democrats have reformed.

Negro Singers Entertain Crowd Before Convening Hour.

By the Associated Press.

Nearly an hour before the time set for convening the morning session, another touch of the revival spirit was given the assembling convention by a very dusky chorus of jubilee singers, who took the platform 100 strong and poured out such a volume of the big, brawling, fan overhead—which worked vainly, even in the almost empty hall, to churn the hot, gummy air into a semblance of life.

As soon as Ristine had finished reading the minority report, which bore only his own signature, the convention voted it down in chorus and thus the Smith delegations from Louisiana and the District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone were seated without even a roll call.

W. W. Durbin of Ohio, chairman of the Committee on Permanent Organization, presented his report recommending that Senator Robinson be made the permanent chairman and it went through amid a bustling ovation for Robinson.

The Arkansas Senator was escorted to the platform amid a thunder of applause. He was dressed in cool-looking linen with a flower in his buttonhole and spoke slowly and clearly. Robinson's big, deep voice carried well through the loud-speakers and the huge audience hailed every political quip and shot at the Republican party with glee as he went along.

The speaker's prohibition references, during which he did not follow exactly his prepared manuscript, were applauded, but he added a real ovation, when he added his prepared text a short duration, during which he said that "Jefferson glowed in Virginia's statute guaranteeing religious liberty." Most of the delegates stood and cheered, hats were waved above the roaring masses, but right in front of the hall, 50 feet from the convention chairman, the delegations from North Carolina and Alabama seated together, remained glued in their places.

The delegates grew impatient and there were cries of "Let's go" as the platform huddle continued. The leaders were talking over procedure for the day and night sessions.

The convention bands kept up a rollicking effort to entertain the crowd, but their music was almost lost in the noise on the convention floor itself. The Iowa delegation stood up and sang the song about "There Where the Tall Corn Grows," and other delegations applauded them. Everybody seemed good-natured, despite the delay.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was in her place on the platform to the right rear of the chairman, and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith had long since arrived in her special seat on the left.

Called to Order Late.

It was 11:44, or 44 minutes after the time set, when Chairman Bowers came to the front of the speaker's runway and hammered for order. The hall was in such confusion that it took several minutes for the delegates to sort themselves out from the hundred groups conferring in the aisles and find their own seats.

The opening prayer was offered by the Rev. George Gilmore of the first Unitarian Church of Denver, Colo.

After a few announcements by the convention clerk, J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, chairman of the Credentials Committee, presented his committee's report, including the recommendation that the South-Ewing slate of delegates from Louisiana be seated.

Missouri Minority Report.

When the committee reported an amended adoption of the report, Colonel Carl L. Ristine, Missouri's member of the committee, took the floor to present a minority report.

Robinson Resumes Quiet.

Robinson made no move for many minutes to quell the storm, although the struggle in the North Carolina delegation took place only a few feet in front of him, on the front row of the delegate seats at the center aisle.

Finally the Arkansas Senator began pounding with a huge mallet. "All gentlemen will be seated," he shouted in a voice that carried even over the din and confusion. "Gentlemen will be seated promptly."

And he was right about it, for when he went coolly on with his speech moment later silence was quickly obtained.

In closing, Robinson pleaded for co-operation from the floor in maintaining order and getting the business of the convention done. He was stormily applauded as he bowed and stepped aside to take up his duties of driving the convention machinery along to its destined close.

As the convention settled a spirit of good will showed itself in the North Carolina delegation when both parties to the fight helped to place the banner again on its mast. Alabama delegates were smiling proudly over their success in holding their banner against the invasion.

Gavel Made of Coal Presented.

A moment later the chairman of the Utah delegation began a speech in presenting Robinson with a copper and gold gavel of authority. It was a husky looking implement, but seemed small in the big hand of the Arkansas Senator as he accepted it. The Pennsylvania delegation followed with presentation of a gavel carved from anthracite coal. It was a gleaming black weapon of law and order, but Robinson looked a little doubtful that it would stand the strain of a real crisis. He continued to use the big mallet, with which he started out.

Routine adoption of the report of the committee on rules and order of business followed.

Former Senator James Hamilton of Illinois was recognized to present the report of the committee on organization of the national committee. He was accorded a greeting and read his report in the sustained singing tone for which he has long been widely known.

Adoption of the report was followed by a State roll call to get national committee nominations.

Urey Woodson of Kentucky was recognized to move that the National Committee selections be ratified, but J. Horner Davis of Clarksville, Tenn., stood on a chair to protest against the method by which selections were made in that state.

As soon as Ristine had finished reading the minority report, which bore only his own signature, the convention voted it down in chorus and thus the Smith delegations from Louisiana and the District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone were seated without even a roll call.

Wanted to "go on record" and would not ask that his report be either debated or voted upon, Ristine, declaring that the Ewing Louisiana delegation had been selected "contrary to law" inasmuch as the State Central Committee had neither referred nor declined it.

Other commissioners who had examined it said they believed it would prove entirely satisfactory.

The Tragedy of Reed.

of saying that Congress is composed of third-rate men. Let one of those business men try to be elected to Congress and see how difficult it is."

HE most dramatic and the most tragic development of the convention thus far has been the collapse of the Reed candidacy. His own delegation from Missouri is seething with sedition which has been heightened by Reed's nasty fight against Smith. It is doubtful at this moment if half the delegation at heart is for Reed. The tragedy is furnished by the Senator's own bitterness over his failure. There has been no graciousness in the attitude with which he has met the situation. Three days ago the Smith leaders were willing, nay eager, to give Reed the vice presidential nomination. Now it is doubtful if he could have it. His tactics have bordered on desperation. It is known that within the last two days he has seriously considered a proposal to force a plank into the platform to dry that Smith would not consent to run on. He is now reported as being determined to get off the floor and employ his great power of eloquence in an effort to stampede the convention.

An Anti-Climax.

THE fact is that the Missouri Senator is surrounded by a small group of men who are afraid to tell him the cold, unpleasant truth, and he resents the efforts of others to inform him that he himself is a victim of treachery, while his opponents feel that he is a bad sport and a poor loser. What a sad anti-climax to a really great career.

Cochran Resentful.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN J. COCHRAN of St. Louis is one of the Missouri delegates who believe the nomination of Smith is a foregone conclusion, and he is openly determined to hold the delegation to its instructions and vote for him. "To the end of the race," Cochran told the writer he was convinced that the Reed candidacy was being used as a catapult by dry elements which would promptly stab Reed in the back once they had succeeded in using him to stop Smith. If the voting continues past the first ballot, it is possible that some members of the Missouri delegation may publicly register their sentiments by announcing from the floor that they would vote for Smith except for the unit rule which binds them to Reed. Such a display of mutiny would do much to destroy what remains of the morale of the Reed forces.

HEAT DOES NOT BOTHER, SHE SAYS

To Attend Every Convention Session as She Did 4 Years Ago—Tells of Phone From Husband.

By the Associated Press.

SAM HOUSTON HALL, HOUSTON, Tex., June 27.—Sitting with friends and members of her family in her private box at the Democratic convention today, Mrs. Alvin E. Smith commented on the presidential candidacy of her husband with the simple statement that she would be "very glad, indeed, if the Governor wins the nomination."

"Oh, I do think this is fine, and I have such a good seat here that I can see everything that goes on," she said enthusiastically, indicating the jamming crowds that were filling up and down the convention hall aisles.

"Yes, indeed, I enjoy it and I am going to attend every single session, no matter what happens, and no matter how hot it gets," she said yesterday was a contest to see whether she would domesticate her husband or he would make a hobo out of her.

The fight was a draw, according to the wife. After they had lived together for two years, she said, How still preferred the companionship of tramps and Mrs. How hadn't taken any more kindly to a ride of life.

She declared How would leave his home, no matter how attractive she had made it, to sit around a fire with hobos and he preferred Mulligan stew out of a tin can to her best dinner. He told her, according to the suit, that "he would rather associate with hobos" than live with her, and, furthermore, he thought washing was an unnecessary habit.

Telephone Call From Husband.

Politics and convention news couldn't long weep attention of his mother of five children. She took off in the middle of session to tell of another telephone call from the Governor at Albany all night.

"He calls me every night, just to see how things are, and to tell me how he and the rest of the family are getting along," she said, her curving into a soft smile.

"I must know, now, see how they are getting along without me. I suppose they can perfectly well, but it always hard to imagine, you know."

"I talked to Emily myself last night. She is now staying with her older and youngest brother, since she has gotten well. She sounded fine over the telephone, and she was perfectly well."

Emily, Mrs. John Warner, had been selected as an alternate from New York and was promoted to the rank of delegate upon the illness of a delegate, but a severe attack of influenza kept her at home and Mrs. Smith had left her eldest daughter in bed under a doctor's care.

"This heat would have been too much for her, don't you think?" questioned the mother solicitously.

"But, you know, I haven't minded the heat a bit since I came. I thought it would be just awful, but I haven't even known that it was."

Look Picture of Goodness.

And she looked the picture of goodness as she said it, in her white crepe de chine frock with its cool, yellow vestee, and an abundance of green jade jewelry. A ring, bracelet, a long necklace and earrings of matching design constituted her ornaments. A long, full-length handkerchief of jade green crepe de chine was threaded through her bracelet.

Her delay in arriving at last night's session she attributed to a automobile trip she took with her family in the afternoon to Galveston.

With Mrs. Smith in her box were her son, Arthur, and her daughter, Katherine, who has been Mrs. Francis J. Quillinan for less than two weeks. The children were particularly interested in the number of women, who went to the Smith box to shake the hand of the next President's wife.

Wife Says Husband Preferred Hobos to Her, Mulligan Stew for Her Dinners.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 27.—Her life with James Eads How, former St. Louis, wealthy hobo, as depicted in the divorce complaint filed by Mrs. Ingeborg J. How here yesterday was a contest to see whether she would domesticate her husband or he would make a hobo out of her.

The fight was a draw, according to the wife. After they had lived together for two years, she said, How still preferred the companionship of tramps and Mrs. How hadn't taken any more kindly to a ride of life.

She declared How would leave his home, no matter how attractive she had made it, to sit around a fire with hobos and he preferred Mulligan stew out of a tin can to her best dinner. Testimony in Case Ends.

Testimony was ended shortly after noon, after several State's witnesses had been called in rebuttal of the defense contention that Buschman could not have signaled from the jail in the manner detailed by Cunningham.

A jail guard said it was possible for Buschman to have lowered a window outside his cell to open a way for signals to men on the sidewalk. Slattery, according to Cunningham, was kidnapped a few minutes after he left the House of Detention, south of the jail, where he was sheltered for protection of his life.

Judge Rutledge, in brief instruction, informed the jury that in the event of conviction it could fix the penalty at from two to 10 years in the penitentiary.

Troup, the first of the three men to be placed on trial, was tried only on the kidnapping charge because the State is unable to prove Slattery was murdered in the city. Buschman is under sentence of imprisonment as a habitual criminal for the robbery in which Slattery was to have testified against him. Therefore, the State is not expected to try him for kidnapping.

The robbery was the $275 holdup of the William G. Nicklin Tannery, 409 South Second street, last Aug. 3. Troup was identified as one of the robbers by John Berne, who employed Slattery as "pony boy" in his blacksmith shop in rear of the.

This hearing was adjourned until Aug. 10, when the trial of the three men charged with the robbery will begin.

Prosecuting Attorney Mueller issued a statement saying he would not disqualify himself or his assistants, and Judge Mulloy has stated that, in this event, he will proceed to prosecute Mueller and appoint an outside prosecutor.

Berne, now serving a 5-year penitentiary term for another robbery, explained he decided to "come through with all he knew" after his former "pony boy" had been freed.

In cross-examination by Assistant Circuit Attorney Stack, the defendant was shown his record of 54 arrests by police, and admitted it "must be right." He declared, however, he never had been convicted of a crime.

Troup's defense was supported by his father, Joseph Troup Sr., a carpenter, of 4258 Maffitt avenue, who said his son returned home about 6 p.m. April 16. The defendant's mother said he had spent most of the day working on his automobile.

Troup's automobile, a Chandler, was identified by Cunningham as one used in the kidnapping. Cunningham, who is serving a 60-day workhouse sentence for carrying concealed weapons, was charged against him while he was in jail with Buschman, related the automobile parked at Thirteenth and Clark streets, in view of Buschman at the jail window. A few minutes later, he recounted, Slattery, accused as he came out of the House of Detention, was placed in the rear seat and Troup drove away. Buschman, in jail, remarked: "The boy's going to be taken for a ride." Cunningham testified.

$500,000 CLAIMS AGAINST MISSING REAL ESTATE MAN

Man Accused of Abducting Negro Witness Says He Was Riding With Girl at the Time.

Former Drug Clerk of New York, Who Rose to Wealth in Spectacular Style, Sought on $3600 Warrant

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Julius Belfort, 45 years old, president of Belmont, Inc., a real estate financing and investment company is being sought by Jamaica detectives on a warrant issued Monday by Magistrate Doyle charging grand larceny.

While the warrant, sworn out by Adolf Fuecht, a butcher, of Brooklyn, mentions the sum of $2600, it is known that many other investors, with claims amounting to nearly $500,000 have reported their cases to the office of District Attorney Newcomb of Queens. One investor, a wealthy retired butter and egg merchant, is known to have invested $125,000. Other claims, aggregating more than $80,000 have been placed in the hands of Herman Goldberg, attorney for the defense.

Goldberg told Magistrate Doyle, that Fuecht gave Belfort the money Oct. 10, 1926, for investment in a first deed of trust. Belfort gave him a bond and told him the property on which he held the mortgage was located on Van Wyck boulevard. Recently Fuecht became suspicious and learned the property was recorded in the name of Reed Meyer and others.

Constitution Over Disappearance.

Belfort's disappearance caused much consternation in social, civic, philanthropic and financial circles in New York. He was reported one of the largest real estate operators in Jamaica. His home there was a show place, with elaborate furnishings, Turkish bath and a $10,000 swimming pool. He was vice president of the Jamaica Kiwanis Club, and had been highly recommended for his generous gifts to public enterprises.

Then there was his country home, on the grounds of the old Murphy's mansion at East Orange, L. I., on which he spent considerable sums for landscaping and remodeling. The house is said to have 18 rooms and 15 baths and it was hitherto the Negro chauffeur, Harry, who was in charge of the house week-end.

In fact, as Belfort had said on many occasions, "Spending money was his hobby."

Ten years ago he was a clerk in a drug store at a moderate salary. Then he opened a modest real estate office in the back of a hardware shop. His rise after that was spectacular.

Praises for Public Spirit.

It was only a month ago, at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Astor, that Borough president Patten praised the public spirit of his vice president, Belfort.

At that same meeting, Belfort received a large floral bouquet from the members. He was treasurer of the dinner committee, but though the receipts were more than $1000, weekly from the treasury without a title.

PERMANENT CHAIRMAN ROBINSON WARNS AGAINST WET DECLARATION

FEARS IT WOULD INVITE AND ENCOURAGE DIVISION IN RANKS OF THE PARTY

Democratic Organization Neither a Prohibition Nor an Anti-Prohibition Body He Declares in Speech to Convention.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 27.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas assailed the Republican administration of the last seven years, warned against inclusion of a wet plank in the Democratic platform and made a bid for farm support in his speech accepting the permanent chairmanship of the Democratic national convention here today. The text of his speech follows:

"The responsibility as well as the honor associated with the chairmanship of this convention fully recognized. The obligation to serve with patience and impartiality is readily acknowledged. Seldom, if ever, have the representatives of the national Democratic party gathered under more impressive conditions. We face a notable political crisis. The exercise of sound judgment and common sense in the nomination of candidates and the demonstration of fidelity to recognized party principles constitute a sane way to harmonize our differences and are essential to success in the approaching campaign."

Praises Party's Champions.

"The Democratic party has a mission which has not materially changed since the days of Jefferson. The necessity for political reform is greater now than ever before. Our party, from its birth, has safeguarded the rights of the masses. It has championed personal liberty and opposed centralization. Jefferson sought to protect the unshod against the employment of laws and government agencies for private profit."

"Jackson aroused the public to the menace of plutocracy. Cleveland voiced resentment at the abuse of the public power to enrich favored groups by the exploitation of the masses. Wilson defined anew the Democratic ideals of justice and equality. Since its formation the Democratic party has labored to establish the doctrine that the fundamental function of government is to secure equality of rights and opportunities for all citizens."

"In this campaign the Republicans cunningly seek to raise false issues through which to win their way back into public favor."

Assails G. O. P. Corruption.

"The national administration during the last seven years is indefensible from any standpoint. No corruption and inefficiency it is accused only by the disgraceful prostitution of power in states dominated by the Republican party. The assertion of our opponents that the Democratic party cannot be trusted to promote soundness is totally false. The Democratic party has at no time interfered with lawful enterprises. It is the defender of legitimate business. What other period since our Government was established compares favorably with the eight years of the Wilson administration? The boldest champion of the opposition cannot recall another time when prosperity was more general. Tested by the usual profits we find those eight years among the most glorious in all our country's history. Labor was profitably employed; industry operated full time; agriculture was on an equality with other business."

"The prosperity of the present by no means equals that under Democratic control."

"The facts of the whole do not justify the boast in the Kansas City platform."

Quotes Own Figures Against G. O. P.

"The Secretary of the Treasury admits in his annual report for 1927 that conditions during that year were worse than in 1926."

"The President's Industrial Conference Board asserts that business prosperity in the United States is confined to giant corporations. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce examined 100,000 concerns in 1927 and reported 24,000 of them earning no profit whatever."

"The Commissioner of Internal Revenue states that only three-fifths of the corporations manufacturing leather products reported net incomes for 1925."

"The record of commercial and bank failures reflects the falsity of this claim of exceptional prosperity."

"In 1919, only 50 State banks and four national banks failed with aggregate liabilities of less than $12,000,000; in 1925, 351 State banks and 162 national banks with total liabilities of $173,000,000 passed into receivership. Note the figures for 1926: Seven hundred and seventeen two-State banks failed with liabilities of $26,000,000. The data for 1927 is incomplete but it shows total liabilities of State banks which became insolvent during that year in excess of $29,000,000."

"What are the facts with respect to commercial failures? There were 21 per cent more in 1927 than in the previous year."

Farm Production Falls Off.

"Annual farm products decreased more than $1,500,000,000 comparing 1924 with 1927."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics departments of Justice and Interior, of the Alien Property Custodian's office and of the Veterans' Bureau and unmasked graft took toll in millions of the public treasury.

"Moral Irresponsibility."

"The bombastic blarney of the chairman of the Kansas City convention and the staggering verbiage and reckless reversions of the Republican platform prompt the declaration that both the foreign and domestic policies of the Harding and Coolidge administrations are characterized by confusion and inconsistency—the confusion resulting from ignorance; the inconsistency arising from moral irresponsibility. How otherwise account for the agreement not to fortify our possessions in the Pacific; for the destruction of new battleships and the immediate building of inferior vessels. In what other way can be explained the preaching of peace while waging war in Nicaragua; the whitewashing of corruption in high places; the condonation of the sale of the Republican party machinery to the beneficiaries of corrupt gains with faithless cabinet officers?

"President Wilson's foreign policy was decisive. It commanded respect for the United States throughout the world. It pledged co-operation with other powers in the promotion of international peace and in the avoidance of war."

Foreign Policy Criticized.

"Who can comprehend who can define the foreign policy of the Harding and Coolidge administrations? What is the position now of our country in the opinion of mankind? What is the attitude of the United States with respect to great international problems? Our government is unpopular. Our flag is regarded with suspicion and contempt. Nothing has been done, little is proposed, that is calculated to invite the confidence and friendship of other peoples. The peace policy has been hesitant, blundersome and futile. In Wilson's time the United States held the leadership of the world on all highways of human progress. Prompted by the ignorance and malice of those enjoying his confidence, President Harding abandoned this leadership; and President Coolidge does not choose to accept its resumption."

"There are too many subjects of vital interest on which Democrats agree to justify breaking up over questions about which there have always been differences of opinion."

Wants No Wet Plank.

"Those who urge that our platform shall assail the eighteenth amendment and the laws for its execution, should be reminded that prohibition has not heretofore been made a party issue."

"Prompted by a desire to promote harmony and concert of action, it is suggested that no wet plank be inserted in our platform. It is true that the Democratic party is not a prohibition party. Neither is it an anti-prohibition party. Democrats have always divided on the problem of prohibition. Many sincerely advocate prohibition as an economic and moral measure. Others believing that its tendency is to encourage lawlessness, advocate substantial changes in the Constitution and laws."

"The fear that this convention will attempt to commit the Democratic party to a wet platform has alarmed many Southern Democrats who favor the continuance of prohibition because of the evidence of its economic and moral value in the progress of the South. To ignore the practical political aspect of this question is to invite and encourage division in our ranks, and to submerge these fundamental issues for which we can unite and labor in concert."

No Likelihood of Nullification.

"Let it be remembered as the congress is now constituted, and as it will be composed for many years, there appears no likelihood of repeal or nullification of the eighteenth amendment. The only important practical result to be expected from a wet platform is that it may drive out of the party many who favor prohibition and are unwilling to yield their views upon the subject."

"Democrats are united for the destruction of corruption and for the promotion of honesty in governmental affairs. We are united in purpose to enforce in good faith the Constitution and laws; to protect honest business enterprises against the unfair and oppressive methods of monopolies; to assure relief, too long delayed, to the great agricultural interests of the nation to which the Republican party had brought bankruptcy and ruin."

Urge Honorable Compromise.

"Respecting these important subjects there need be no division of sentiment among Democrats. We of the South are happy to have a national Democratic convention assembled in this typically Southern city. It has often been said that Democrats in convention can be relied upon to offset the blunders and to heal the self-inflicted wounds of the Republican party."

"Let us disappoint the expectation of our adversaries and realize the hopes of faithful Democrats throughout the nation who look to us for the exercise of prudence and wisdom. We must demonstrate willingness to enter into honorable compromises and to make personal sacrifices; otherwise the opportunity which is auspicious—the opportunity for victory—will be wasted."

Recalls Bowers' Speech.

"Mr. Bowers in his notable address to the convention has described the corruption which has disgraced the executive departments during the past seven years. He has exposed the scandals of crime and fraud never before witnessed. Honest government in the public interest is an issue which the Democratic party is entitled to make."

"Under President Wilson our party administered the nation's affairs, and expended more than $26,000,000,000 during the World War. We kept the record clean. The worst that can be said is that the emergency, which involved the safety of our country and its institutions, caused expenditures which were extravagant. Not an instance of official dishonesty of sufficient consequence to justify the most stringent immediate following of the Republican party to power. March 4, 1921, organized plunderers took control of the De-

BOWERS' SPEECH ROUSES THROGHT TO ENTHUSIASM

Parade of States Follows Keynote Demand Hand of Privilege Be Taken From Farmers' Pockets.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 27.—Claude G. Bowers, editorial writer for the New York Evening World, roused the Democrats to a high pitch of enthusiasm with his keynote speech last night.

If the merit of a keynote speech is measured by the applause it elicits, then Bowers' effort was infinitely superior to that by Senator Fess at the Republican convention. Fess presented acres of statistics; Bowers confined his statistics to one short paragraph and devoted nearly all the rest of his remarks to a hot attack on the Republican party. There was hardly anything that could be said again against the record of the last seven years that Bowers left unsaid.

Bowers caught the audience at the start and held its attention throughout. His epigrams crackled and sizzled. His opening shot at "the most brazen and shameless carnival of corruption that ever blackened the reputation of a decent and old-fashioned people" brought a joyous whoop from the delegates, and they came to their feet with a roar of applause at his mention of Woodrow Wilson.

Demonstration for Farmers.

The speaker scored a unique triumph in starting a demonstration for the farmer. He painted a graphic picture of the farmer's plight. He told how the President on one day "by the scratch of the pen increased the tariff rate of the pig iron industry by 50 percent" and on the next day "delivered a homily to the farmers" on the wickedness of certain provisions in a bill of his own." Coming to his climax, he demanded that the "hand of privilege be taken out of the farmer's pockets and off the farmer's throat."

That started it. Amid a din of cheering a North Dakota delegate seized his State standard and began a march about the hall. Soon the standards of Kentucky, Tennessee, Nebraska, Kansas, Mississippi, Indiana and other Eastern and Southern states were bobbing in the procession. New York's coming into the line brought a new burst of cheering. Before the flurry ended all the states were represented in the march. Even the District of Columbia was demanding justice for the farmer. Aligned by the band, the racket kept going for about 10 minutes. Bowers improved the occasion by reading telegrams that were handed up to him.

Hoover and Teapot Dome.

One of the big hits of the evening was the speaker's denunciation of the Coolidge silence in the face of the Teapot Dome exposures. In this connection he took a shot also at Herbert Hoover. Drawing his ammunition from the record, Bowers said:

"With a warning of the impending crime (the leasing of the oil reserves) went to a member of the Cabinet, but recently knighted by the golden spoon, he sent the letter to Albert E. Felt with this notation: 'I should be glad to convey to this gentleman any reply you may suggest.'

The applause rose high as Bowers drew his moral: "I sometimes think that the virtues of silence may be overdone. Sometimes silence is golden—for the thief."

The power interests came in for terrific excoriation. He told how the application of the Hamiltonian theory had made Government "profitable to the powerful" and added:

"Give the plunderbound but eight years more of such governmental co-operation, and a combination of power companies will put a few men in control of the public utilities of a mighty empire. Make no mistake about it—that is the Jacksonian struggle of tomorrow—once in possession and entrenched the plunderbound of the power monopoly cannot be dislodged by the fighting forces of a dozen Andrew Jacksons."

Silence on Prohibition.

Bowers at the end made a stirring plea for harmony.

"We face a foe," he said, "grown arrogant with success. It were indeed to permit the enemy to divide us or divert us on the eve of such a battle."

Under the spell of the Bowers speech, the Democrats for the time being were as harmonious as anybody could desire. North, South, East and West joined in giving him and his fighting sentiments a lusty cheer.

New Crowd Rules Democracy; Old Leaders Are a Bit Dazed, Says William Allen White

Once the Party of Boots and Whiskers, It Is to Become Vehicle of the Industrial Urbanite.

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 27.—The Democratic convention creaked slowly to its opening. Chairman Clem Shaver consumed 15 minutes in desultory pounding of the gavel, and three bands on three sides of the hall played "Assembly" three times, and still the crowd on the floor milled aimlessly about the aisles. Not until the preacher arose and filled the microphone with a bull-roaring voice of prayer did the audience quieted. Then a girl from Houston sang three songs. The audience stood up in decent respect when she sang "Star Spangled Banner," joined her in singing as she led in "America" and cheered her with enthusiasm when she sang "Dixie." If she had tried "The Sidewalks of New York" probably the audience would have raised the roof.

It will be interesting to see national conventions of the Democratic party when "The Sidewalks of New York" and "Dixie" are blended in a counter-pointed harmony. That is coming sooner or later, for it is becoming more and more evident that the Democratic party in America, once the party of boots and whiskers under Jackson, later the party of ruthlessness under Cleveland, recently the party of populism under Bryan and later the party of agrarian protest under Wilson, will become the party of the city man; the industrial urbanite; and so long as the South votes the prejudices of 1876 and blindly follows the urban domination of New York, the Democratic party, in its desire to express the gay high vise of the Celtic and Mediterranean bloods and blends in our population, the democracy will be a well balanced brother of the West. It has given up hope in this convention to defeat Smith. Politically, in this convention, the South is dedicated to the agreeably mischievous task of putting bent pins in Al Smith's chair, trying to make a platform so dry that he will sit down in a bed of thorns.

New Faces of the New Party.

Looking over the floor at the delegates who sat in serried ranks one saw the new faces of the new party. It was the party of the city man, well-tailored, well-barbered, well-fed; a bit paunchy but cheerful, competent, intelligent and on the whole endowed with good, rich Irish blood. A new crowd is in control of the democracy. The old leaders, men like Carter Glass of Virginia and Josephus Daniels of South Carolina who have been leaders when Southern democracy was a position which Senator

White wrote into the Republican platform on farm relief, but now except a certain amount of denunciation and viewing alarm and floods of bile from the down-trodden and agriculturists.

Real Fight Over the Platform.

The real fight in the Convention on Resolution's will be led by the South for a prohibition plank, specifically naming the eighteenth amendment as part of the Constitution and demanding its enforcement. There is no hope of amendment of the Eighteenth Amendment without the support of the South. The South is denied; and the most brazen and shameless carnival of corruption that ever blackened the party.

We stand for the spirit of the Declaration of Independence which is made a mockery for the Bill of Rights that is ignored; for the social and economic justice which is refused; for the sovereign rights of States that are denied; and for the return to the old-fashioned civic integrity of a Jackson, a Tilden, a Cleveland, and a Wilson. We stand for the restoration of the government to the people built by their blood and cemented with their blood.

"We do not underestimate the enemy. The little gilded group that now owns and controls the government can pour a golden stream into the slush fund and make no impression on the fortunes they have accumulated into their coffers. The enemy enters the campaign unembarrassed by a debt—Harry Sinclair has paid that off. It enters the campaign with his money in his pocket and his blessing on its head.

All night, as the bands blared and the quavering quavered through the great hall in a hot little room under a swishing fan, where the phalanx of the old Democracy is fighting to claim the cheering of approval, natural, no controversial points were mentioned by the temporary chairman; he spoke no words about prohibition, but it was obvious that he had in his mind as his hero, old Al Smith. His veiled allusions were in perfect taste.

Then, disregarding the noise, Shaver announced the delegates should stand while prayer was being said by Dr. William States Jacob, pastor of First Presbyterian Church. There was instantaneous silence.

The text of the keynote speech will be found on Page 5.

named and when the throng who followed him into the adjourned session gathered for the great fight of the convention. There, Daniels and Moody gathered around the old guard of Democracy, the scarred troopers of yesterday, and prepared for the fight. They will stand wherever they can, most of them will follow him into the adjourned session, a plank which will condemn Republicans for President Coolidge's veto of the Muscle Shoals bill; labor will get what it desires, the League of Women Voters will get their demands for the temporary legislation and the conduct of war. But probably will not obtain endorsement of the so-called "lame duck" amendment which provides for the opening of Congress the year from election instead of waiting 12 months.

The farmers probably will demand an amendment for the equalization of the tax on the farm land.

"Now they hope to drag the conscience of the nation with the doped soothsaying of a fake prosperity; and we want to know what prosperity they mean. They point to a few powerful corporations, giving the pat of paternalistic privilege, and our answer is that you cannot judge the prosperity of a people by the earnings of a privileged monopoly.

"Many years ago Thomas Jefferson advised a friend impressed with the evidence of prosperity in the homes of the nobility in Paris and Versailles, to go out into the country and look into the pots in the fireplaces of the peasants. That is our answer now.

"Our million jobless men is not prosperity; a million abandoned farms is not prosperity; the utter ruin of the basic industry of America is not prosperity; the failure of 4000 banks in the seven years of normalcy is not prosperity; the failure of 23,146 commercial houses in 1927 is not prosperity; and if this year's record is foreshadowed by the first four months there will be 23,000 commercial failures in 1928.

"The difference between the prosperity of the Hamiltonian 'nation' that they mean and the Jeffersonian nation that we know, is this: they could crowd their 'nation' into one corner of this vast hall, and the nation that we know includes cities and towns and the countryside, and 113,000,000 people in the homes of men. Their prosperity is a spotted thing—an evidence of disease; and we want to spread it like a healthy glow over every element and section of our population.

"Do they offer us their claim of the payment of eight billions of the public debt up to June 30 of this year? Our answer is that we are not paid.

"Our million jobless men is not prosperity; a million abandoned farms is not prosperity; the utter ruin of the basic industry of America is not prosperity; the failure of 4000 banks in the seven years of normalcy is not prosperity; the failure of 23,146 commercial houses in 1927 is not prosperity; and if this year's record is foreshadowed by the first four months there will be 23,000 commercial failures in 1928.

"Do they offer us their record of economy? Our answer is that with the elimination of the interest on war debts, the last three years of this regime has cost the people more than four and a quarter billion more than the last three peace years of the Wilson administration.

"Do they offer us their record of economy? Our answer is that with the elimination of the interest on war debts, the last three years of this regime has cost the people more than four and a quarter billion more than the last three peace years of the Wilson administration.

"Mythical prosperity, mythical economy, mythical facts, mythical figures, and mythical men, the last eight years may well be treated by the historian of the future as the mythical age of American history.

Dollar Diplomacy.

"And mythical, too, their virile foreign policy that we have adopted. We hear about it, but we see it not. It is an ametic outcast stumbling blindly in the darkness of No-Man's Land. They dare not face the world made over by the war and meet new duties called for by new occasions. They found us enjoying the moral leadership of all mankind, and they have made us the most distrusted and unpopular nation on the globe.

"Thus through the stupidity of their dollar diplomacy we have stumbled into a petty war with Nicaragua that is taking its daily toll of American lives. Just why we do not know; the only reason we know is that we are here to guarantee an honest election? Why, not long ago we were unable to guarantee an honest election in the city of Philadelphia. Do they say that we are there to prevent rioting in the election? Why at the time we were sending the marines to Nicaragua we were campaigning with bombs in the city of Chicago.

"Now we propose to end dollar diplomacy in Latin America in the interests of justice; but we propose it too, in the interest of American business. We do not propose to sacrifice the future markets of manufacturers and merchants to serve the interest of little groups of financiers and concessionaires. There, within a generation, boom our richest markets; and we are sowing the seed from which our rivals across the sea will reap the harvest in trade. We cannot submit a bill of lading at the point of a bayonet and make the Latin-Americans take it. We cannot write a bill of sale with a mailed fist. We cannot match a marine with a musket against a British or German salesman with a rifle. We can serve the ultimate ends of justice better through the noble spirit of the Mobile speech of Woodrow Wilson than they have done with their dollar diplomacy, backed by the muskets of the marines who are dying needlessly today in the swamps of Nicaragua.

The Anti-Democratic State.

"Never in a century has there been such a call to us to battle for the faith of our fathers as there is today, and never has the control of government been so completely concentrated in the hands of a ruling caste as now. The dreams of the Hamiltonians have literally come true while the people slept. They wanted organized wealth in possession of the government—and we have it. They wanted the sovereign rights of states denied—and we have it. They wanted bureaucratic agents swarming over the land like the locusts of Egypt—and we have it. They wanted,

TEXT OF BOWERS' KEYNOTE SPEECH TO DEMOCRATS

through administration, to make a mockery of democracy—and we have it. The Hamiltonian state is necessary to the people's safety, to the bowed backs of peasants in other people's fields—and we almost have that now. They would defile dollars and minimize men, limit self-government and centralize power, cripple democracy, empower bureaucracy, welcome plutocracy—and we will soon have that, too.

"Give the plunderbund but eight years more of such Governmental co-operation and a combination of power companies will put a few hundred millions of the public utilities of a mighty empire. Make no mistake about it—that is the great Jacksonian struggle of tomorrow. And with that sinister possibility upon us, the people must determine whether they will entrust their interest to those who believe that governments are strong in proportion as they are made profitable to the powerful, or to the Jeffersonians who believe for the welfare of mankind. Once in possession and entrenched, the plunderbund of the power monopoly cannot be dislodged by the fighting force of a dozen Andrew Jacksons."

"Back to the Fundamentals."

"And so we are going back-to the old landmarks of liberty and justice in this campaign. Let me suggest a test for people grown cynical and confused. Saith the Lord, stand ye in the ways and see, and ask for the old paths which is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls."

"We are mobilized to lead the people back to the old paths of constitutional liberty, and to the good way. We are going back-to the old landmarks of liberty and equality when ordinary men had rights that even power respected; when justice, not privilege, was the watchword of the state; when the preamble of the Declaration and the Bill of Rights had meaning; when the nation embraced every section and every class; and before the Pittsburg Brattiano had decided to make Rumanian peasants of American farmers to fill the coffers of a power-pride cast.

"Our principles have been written in the triumphs of the people and baptized in the blood of our brave fathers. Jefferson applied them; Wilson applied them, and we go forth to battle for them now.

"We face a foes grown arrogant with success. It were infamy to permit the enemy to divide us or divert us, on the eve of such a battle. Issues are involved that go to the determination of the future of our institutions and our children. The call that comes to us is as sacred as the cause of humanity itself. From the grave at the Hermitage comes the solemn warning that no man ever won or deserved to win who did not organize and fight united for victory, and shall thus organize and fight. This is a unique campaign. The very precinct committee-men and the district captains become minute men of liberty in the reassertion of the principles of freedom.

"And we shall win, because our cause is just. The predatory forces before us seek a triumph for the sake of the sacking. Their shock troops are the Black Horse Cavalry whose members have made hideous music on Pennsylvania Avenue during the last eight years. They are led by money-mad cynics and scoffers—and we go forth to battle for the cause of man. That no man ever won or deserved to win who did not organize and fight united for victory, and shall thus organize and fight. This is a unique campaign. REED, FACING BOLT IN DELEGATION, CONTINUES FIGHT

Repudiates Shannon Interview, Predicting Victory for Smith—Won't Seek Second Place.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 27.—Senator Reed late last night for the first time gave formal attention to the defection in the Missouri delegation over his candidacy for the presidential nomination. He reiterated his previous statements that he would fight to the end. He added that he would not give consideration to any other nomination than that of the presidency.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Robinson receive Friends on Anniversary.

William E. Robinson, Walnut Park florist, and his wife, Mrs. Caroline Conney Robinson, are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary today with a reception for friends and relatives at their home, 4228 West Lexington avenue. In the morning, a special mass, at which they renewed their marriage vows, was celebrated at Holy Rosary Church.

They were married June 27, 1878, in New Orleans. Mrs. Robinson is a native St. Louisian. The children attending the reception are: Mrs. George Henty, Mrs. J. E. Callahan, Mrs. M. L. Benavides of St. Louis, and Mrs. James F. Mullin. Mrs. Julia Wieden of Chicago, James J. and John Robinson.

CONVICT'S WIFE GETS DIVORCE

Mrs. Alice Kraft Testifies Husband Deserted Her and Their Child.

A divorce was granted in the Court of Domestic Relations yesterday to Mrs. Alice Kraft, 1309A Carroll street, from George H. Kraft, a convict in the Ohio penitentiary, who, according to court investigators, had been guilty of three bigamous marriages.

Mrs. Kraft, who charged her husband with indignities and conviction of a felony, testified they were married in St. Louis Oct. 6, 1916. She testified her husband deserted her a year later following the birth of their son, Calvin. She was awarded custody of the child. Judge Hall heard the case.

SAYS GRAFTERS KEEP VETERANS OUT OF JOBS

American Legion Leader Urges Employment Fund for Ex-Service Men.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, June 27.—Recommendation that the disabled American veterans seek enactment of laws providing additional funds for the Veterans' Bureau to be expended in helping disabled ex-soldiers find employment was made yesterday to the annual convention of the organization by Thomas Kirby, national legislative chairman. He also recommended that the laws make it necessary for civil service officials to give ex-service men a hearing before refusing them appointments.

Kirby's recommendations were heard by the convention where approximately 1500 men, wounded during the war, are assembled, after Ralph T. O'Neal, national vice commander of the American Legion, charged that "many of them would be employed but for the fact that political grafters are holding down many of the government jobs."

O'Neal also assailed pacifists and communists who, he said, would lead the nation to destruction if they had their way.

"The American Legion is working for five cents a day," O'Neal said, "but in the course of that work we have come in contact with a group of people known as pacifists, who tell you that the way to end war is to throw away your arms and dismantle your navies."

O'Neal pledged the American Legion to work with the disabled veterans to obtain justice.

Recommendations made to the convention by Kirby included completion of the hospital construction program of the Veterans' Bureau, for which $15,000,000 was voted at the last session of Congress.

Personal inspection of Veterans' Bureau hospitals by the House Veterans' Committee.

Kirby also proposed that disabled veterans, eligible for civil service positions, be furnished with written explanations why they are "skipped" in making appointments, and that the positions be held open until the veterans have an opportunity to answer the objections.

That simple appropriations be provided for the Veterans' Bureau to maintain a suitable system to assist disabled veterans to obtain employment.

That the appropriation for civilian military training camps and the national guards be increased.

That Congress pass the Britton bill providing for 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier.

That the restriction on immigration be continued.

That a universal conscription act be passed.

PLAN FOR ONE-WAY TRAFFIC ON OLIVE AND LOCUST TABLED

Aldermen Decide Time Too Brief for Public Hearing and Action Before Adjournment.

Action on the pending ordinance to establish one-way traffic for street cars and other vehicles in Olive and Locust streets between Fourth street and Twelfth boulevard, has been deferred by a vote of the Board of Aldermen yesterday.

A public hearing was to have been held tomorrow, but the Board will adjourn for vacation Friday, and Alderman Schwartz, chairman of the Legislative Committee, pointed out that time was too brief for the hearing and subsequent action, so the Board laid the bill on the table.

The Committee once had reported favorably on the bill, but it was recommitted when Olive street merchants protested. That protest has led to formation yesterday of the Olive Street Owners', Tenants' & Lessors' Association, comprising 40 merchants between Fourth and Twelfth. W. B. Huette Jr., shoe dealer, is president; Stanley Goldman, furniture dealer, secretary, and John Mavrikos, candy merchant, treasurer. An assessment of $25 a member was voted. The association may recommend routing westbound Olive cars in Pine street instead of Locust street.

THIRD CHICAGOAN TO JAIL FOR JURY TAMPERING

Cecil Vigor Gets 60 Days in "Red" McLaughlin Murder Case.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 27.—The third sentence resulting from attempts to tamper with the jury that tried Eugene ("Red") McLaughlin for murder was passed yesterday by Judge John P. McGroarty in Criminal Court. He committed Cecil Vigor to 60 days in the county jail for his admitted efforts to influence a venireman in McLaughlin's favor.

After the sentence was pronounced, Charles Dougherty, assistant State's attorney, filed a complaint charging Vigor and Sam Rubin with conspiracy to obstruct justice. Testifying yesterday morning, Vigor declared that Rubin, his brother-in-law, had instigated his efforts to approach the prospective McLaughlin juror. A contempt action against Rubin was dismissed when he professed innocence.

Two others already sentenced to county jail terms for contempt are Robert McLaughlin, brother of the convicted murderer, and president of the Checker Cab Co.; and Gust Steinweber, a labor leader.

NEW CLEANING PROCESS LEAVES NO RING

Trump Kit Makes Expert Cleaning for Every Man, Woman or Child, Safe and Easy.

The universal objection to removing spots at home has been conquered. The TRUMP Kit provides scientific ingredients that removes all spots. The TRUMP Cleaning Manual given free, gives full and complete information telling how to remove over 100 different kinds of spots, how to avoid rings and enables every housewife to become an expert spot remover.

No one substance will remove all spots. Rex Research Chemists have developed five solvents that will remove all spots and no caustic dye is accepted. These are packed in a handy metal kit beautifully lithographed in blue and silver.

Every man and woman has use for TRUMP. It removes stains of fruit, rust, sweat, perspiration, grass, grease spots, food spots—in fact nearly every spot known.

TRUMP comes at an opportune time. TRUMP will not burn or explode. A nation-wide movement is on foot against the use of flammable substances such as gasoline for spot removal. No one will touch a stick of dynamite around the home. Yet one authority says that gasoline and other flammable cleaners have stored up explosive energy—ten times that of dynamite."

SERVICE CAR BILL SIGNED BY MAYOR

Measure Provides for Liability Insurance, Regulation and Licensing of Drivers.

Mayer Miller today signed the ordinance to regulate and license service cars and require them to furnish liability insurance for the protection of passengers and others. The ordinance was passed by the Board of Aldermen yesterday and will become effective as quickly as city officials can put it into operation.

The aldermanic vote was 15 to 11 for passage. Two other service car regulatory bills were filed in committee; one submitted by the Safety Council, called for liability insurance, bond or a showing of the operator's financial responsibility, and the other, sponsored by Alderman Waldman, provided for bond or insurance.

Insurance Clause Important.

The insurance clause is considered the most important. It provides that liability for injury or death of one person shall be $300 and for two persons $150. Insurance companies quote a rate of $425 a year per car for this policy, which operators declare is prohibitive, and none has been carrying any. There has been talk of organization of a mutual insurance company among service drivers. The law demands that insurance shall be carried in a concern licensed to do business in Missouri.

The city is empowered to collect a service car license fee amounting to half of the State motor vehicle fee for each car, in addition to the usual city and State vehicle licenses and property taxes, but the service car fee may be pro-rated for portions of a year.

A license will not be issued until the Street Department certifies that the service car is thoroughly safe, clean, suitable for passengers and of good appearance. If a car so licensed later is found to be unfit or unsuitable, the Director of Streets and Sewers may revoke his certificate, which will cause forfeiture of the license until the objectionable conditions are remedied.

Examination and Test Required.

Upon demand of the Director of Streets and Sewers, each service car driver shall have to demonstrate his ability to drive safely and pass a satisfactorily physical examination, especially as to eyesight and hearing. A service car driver's license will be issued for $1. or 50 cents a year renewal, in addition to the usual State chauffeur's license, and the service driver's card will have to be on display in the vehicle, bearing a firmly attached photograph of the driver. Every licensed driver will have to report for inspection by the Street Department every six months.

Fare for an entire single trip may not exceed 25 cents, under the ordinance, this being the customary charge here, but provision is made for more than three fare zones for each route, for less fare on short hauls. Every machine must carry a placard giving the route, fare, zone and designation as service car. "Far side" stops must be observed, and cars are to pull closely to the curb and avoid interference with traffic. The Board of Public Service is empowered to designate service car stops and stands and to make other rules and regulations "as may be necessary under this ordinance for the regulation and operation of service cars."

The Board of Public Service, upon recommendation of the Director of Streets and Sewers, may revoke or suspend a driver's license; a second suspension within a year for the same cause or any third suspension shall mean revocation of the license. The police are to be notified of revocations. Reinstatement would be possible upon satisfaction of the board. The service car license will be in the form of a placard or card. It will be permissible to carry two more passengers than the factory rated capacity of the machine. No car may be operated without a license, application for which will bear pertinent items of information.

25 Persons Contest $165,000 Will.

Twenty-eight persons, wives, grandmothers and grandnieces, of the late Mrs. Anna Forberg Cook, 75 years old, of Edwardsville, are contesting her will, which bequeathed $55,000 of an $165,000 estate to the City of Collinville, Ill., to establish a memorial hospital. Several relatives who were named to share in the residue are defendants in the suit in which charges of undue influence are made.

ARMY MAN CONVICTED

IN LIQUOR CASE QUIT

Resignation of Capt. Bass Accepted by President "For Good of Service."

WASHINGTON, June 27.—President Coolidge has accepted the resignation of Capt. J. Leland Bass from the army "for the good of the service" and ended court martial proceedings against the officer, who was found guilty, Feb. 10, of transporting liquor in his luggage from Chicago to Selfridge Field, Mich.

The War Department merely announced the acceptance of the resignation and gave no further information, except that the case had not been submitted to the Advocate General here for review, and the acceptance of the resignation automatically closes the case.

Capt. Bass, who has had over a quarter century of military service and rose from a corporal in 1899 to a Major during the World War, was found guilty by an army court martial in Chicago in connection with the liquor transportation on four of 10 counts, charging him with violation of the ninety-fifth article of war, and conduct unbecoming an officer. He pleaded not guilty, claiming that liquor had been placed in his luggage as a joke. His trial was one of the longest army court martials on record.

Capt. Bass is 50 years old. He has been in the Quartermaster Corps of the regular army since 1920. During an interim in his service as an enlisted man in the regular army, he joined the Illinois National Guard and became a Lieutenant for a Mexican expedition and later became a Captain. At the end of the World War he was made a Major in the Field Artillery, and later took a commission as Captain in the Quartermaster Corps.

NEW CHICAGO SCHOOL HEAD

William J. Bogan Slated to Succeed William McAndrew.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 27.—Chicago morning papers today said William McAndrew's successor as superintendent of Chicago's public schools will be William J. Bogan, assistant superintendent. The appointment is to be announced today, the papers said, and the term of office will be four years.

McAndrew was suspended on charges of insubordination and fostering pro-Britishism.

Bogan, a graduate of the University of Chicago, has been acting superintendent of schools during the past year.

PRISONER KILLED, ANOTHER, AND TWO GUARDS WOUNDED

Young Convicts Attack Officers in Attempt to Escape from New York Reformatory.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 27.—A young prisoner was killed and another and two guards were injured in an attempted prison break at Elmira reformatory yesterday. The dead youth was Morris Caster, 18 years old, of Richland, who would have been eligible for parole Oct. 1. He was shot by Frank Frawley, a guard, after Caster and Cecil Berry, 17, had attacked Frawley and Peter Apenovich, another guard, with a hoe. Frawley, Berry and Apenovich are in hospital.

Eighteen other inmates working on the reformatory farm, were held at Frawley pending arrival of aid. According to Frawley, the prisoners crept up and knocked Apenovich unconscious, and attacked Frawley, who drew his weapon after being thrown down and shot Caster. He felled Berry with a second shot.

TWENTY INJURED BY TORNADO

CASPER, Wyo., June 27.—Twenty persons were injured, three seriously, and damage estimated at $50,000 was caused yesterday by a tornado in the southwestern section of the Salt Creek oil field.

The twister struck the camps of the Consolidated and Carter Oil companies about 40 miles north of here, causing considerable damage to buildings. Upwards of 125 oil derricks were wrecked and two gas plants and a power station were demolished.

WHEN MOTHER FOLDS UP BED

Kenneth, two-month-old son of Frank Weaver, was smothered to death yesterday at the Weaver home, 1012 Monroe street, in a folding bed upon which his 6-year-old sister had laid him.

Unaware that the baby was on the bed, Mrs. Weaver folded it up in cleaning the room. When the child was removed 10 minutes later he was unconscious. He died within a few minutes.

Bill Collector Explains Why He Stopped Payment on $1.50 Check.

With considerable interest, Alexander Gaertner, manager of the Original Auto Laundry, 809 Walnut street, read an item in the Post-Dispatch last week relating how L. R. Gaertner, professional collector of bad debts, had purchased a new "shame" car—an automobile with large signs proclaiming "we collect bad debts" to be parked in front of the homes of persons who refuse to pay.

Digging deep into his pockets, Badaracco produced an old check for $1.50 which Gaertner gave to the auto laundry last Feb. 14 and on which payment had been stopped.

"I'm going to collect this $1.50 from Gaertner if I have to spend real money to do it," declared Badaracco today. "We washed his car for him and then he gave us a check that bounced back. I went to his office half dozen times to learn why he had stopped payment, and each time I was told he had gone to Florida."

"Yes, I stopped payment," Gaertner admitted to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "Why? Well, after my car had been washed, I discovered a headlight lens had been broken and a light bulb missing. They were worth exactly $1.50. No, I didn't report the breakage to Badaracco—I just stopped payment and called it even."

Badaracco denied knowledge of any breakage.

STATE COMMITTEE FORMED FOR HOOVER'S NEW YORK CAMPAIGN

W. H. Hill Chosen Its Head: Similar Bodies to Be Organized Elsewhere.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 27.—Secretary Hoover's campaign in the State of New York is to be conducted by a special committee under the chairmanship of William H. Hill of Birmingham. Hill, who led Hoover's pre-convention fight for New York delegates, and George K. Morris, the Republican State chairman, discussed the situation with Hoover yesterday. Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee indicated similar organizations might be established in other states.

Morris predicted Hoover would have little difficulty in carrying New York. The upper part of the State has always been for him. Hill said, and now New York City is beginning to come to him, particularly the foreign language voters who are grateful to Hoover for his part in feeding their relatives during and after the war.

MRS. MARIA L. MAXWELL
LEFT $2,874,963 ESTATEWidow of Central Railroad of New Jersey Executive Bequeaths Shares to Children. Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 27.—A transfer tax appraisal filed yesterday by Maurice E. Stephenson, deputy commissioner of taxation and finance, showed gross assets of the estate of Mrs. Maria L. Maxwell of Parsippany and Glenco, L. I., were $2,874,963 and net assets $2,600,521. Among the assets were securities valued at $2,621,450 and cash on deposit in three New York banks totaling $120,618.

Mrs. Maxwell, who died Feb. 20, 1927, was the widow of John Rogers Maxwell, who at the time of his death in 1910 was chairman of the executive committee of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which he was credited with reorganizing from a branch line to its present importance.

Mrs. Maxwell left her estate to four children, each of whose share was $63,341.

G. O. P. PLANS FOR MISSOURI CAMPAIGN WAIT ON PRIMARY

Mr. Clements, After Conference With Hoover, Says Letter Will Carry State.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Plans for the National Republican campaign in Missouri will be held in abeyance until after the primaries in August. Dr. E. B. Clements, Missouri state chairman, said yesterday after conference here with Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Chairman Work of the National Committee.

Dr. Clements discussed political conditions in Missouri with Hoover and Dr. Work and predicted that Missouri electoral votes would be cast for Hoover. After the primaries an intensive campaign will be made, Clements said.

COST OF CRIMINAL SUIT

NOT A "BUSINESS EXPENSE"

So Tex Rickard Must Pay Tax on $62,000 He Sought to Deduct From Income.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—George L. (Tex) Rickard, head of New York's Madison Square Garden, was today denied the right to deduct $7041 from his 1922 income tax as expenses incurred in defending a criminal charge brought against him by patrons of his swimming pool.

In defending the case Rickard paid about $62,000 to attorneys and detectives. The Tax Board ruled that costs of defense against criminal charges cannot be construed as "ordinary and necessary business expenses" in the operation of a swimming pool.

Miss Wills Wins Her First Match at Wimbledon

Hennessey and Coen Advance in Singles Of the Men's Division

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 27.—Led by Miss Helen Wills, the California girl who is defending the women's singles championship, the American players emerged triumphant in four out of five matches today in the Wimbledon tournament.

The veteran former American champion, Mrs. Molla Mallory, was the only one of the five to meet defeat. She bowed to the youth and speed of Miss L. Eickerton. Miss Goldsack, 441 444 44-26-6. Miss Goldsack, 144 211 12-16-2. Second Set. Miss Wills.....462 444 4-28-6. Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., the seventh ranking American player, defeated Miss Christabel Hardie of England, 6-4, 6-4. Miss Hardie was the opponent of Miss Wills in the final of the French hardcourt championship recently.

Hunter's Conqueror Beaten.

E. D. Andrews, New Zealand champion, who eliminated Francis T. Hunter on Monday, was defeated by Christian Boussus, one of the most brilliant of the young French players, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

In a duel between two of England's women stars, Miss Evelyn Colyer defeated Miss Peggy Saunders, 7-5, 6-1.

Miss Cecile Aussem, German champion and one of Miss Wills' leading rivals, scored easily, defeating Miss M. V. Chamberlain of England, 6-4, 6-2.

Miss E. Boyd, the Australian player, sprang an upset by eliminating Miss Gwyneth Sterry, English star, in a keenly contested match, 6-3, 10-8. Miss Sterry had been unable to take a set from Miss Wills in last year's tournament, or anywhere else, played with the Wrightman cup team and the British favorites.

Hennessey and Lott Win.

The first of the major doubles engagements brought American another victory when the Davis Cup pair, John Hennessey and George Lott, defeated R. Dunet and Gaston of England, 7-5, 7-5, 6-2.

Elizabeth Ryan, Californian now residing in England, easily defeated Mrs. A. V. Bridge of England, 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Helen Jacobs, California teammate of Helen Wills, trounced John Ridley, English star, with the loss of only two games, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Anderson Advances.

Miss Goldsack did not appear in the least nervous. She put up as good a game as she has shown this season, in the opinion of critics, but had neither the stroking power nor tactics to match those of the California girl. Spectators were convinced that reports of Miss Wills being even better than last year were not exaggerated.

Miss Amelia Earhart, the trans-Atlantic flyer, left the stands after the Wills match.

The point scores: Wills-Goldsack, 1-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

CHINESE DAVIS CUP STAR PLAYS BARNES, TODAY

By Davison Obear.

All the seeded players will participate in the men's singles event of the Missouri Valley tennis championship on the Triple A Club courts today. The 10 men seeded in the draw have advanced without much difficulty, although one was close to defeat yesterday.

There are several contests on thin afternoon's program which should be hard fought. Karl Hodge, Triple A star, will find plenty of competition when he meets Bruce Barnes, the Houston, Tex., junior in a fourth round match.

The match between Paul Kong of the Chinese Davis cup and Charles Barnes, former Washington University player, is expected to be hard fought. Gordon Lum, captain of the Chinese team, will meet the winner of the match with Teddy Eggman, former Cornell captain, and Harlan Gould, the Kirkwood, Mo., player. Eggman is favored to win from Gould and should give Lum a close battle in the next round. Lum stayed off defeat when he finally won from Robert Ryan, Fort Worth, Tex., in a thrilling three-set battle. The score was 11-9, 4-6, 7-5.

Defeated by favorable weather the tournament committee ran off a total of 50 matches yesterday. Play is now in the fourth round with a few incomplete third round matches.

JUNIOR SINGLES.

Junior Doubles, St. Louis, defeated Phillips Close and Kansas City, 6-1. Harold Thurman, Oklahoma City, defeated Arthur Voss, Oklahoma City, 6-1.

Fourth Round.

Burns, Houston, Tex., defeated Everett Davis, 6-1, 6-1.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

STITCHES CAPTURES THE 5TH; POSTMISTRESS, BLESS HER HEART ARE AMONG VICTORS

By Dent McSkimming

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK, June 27.—In a day of close finishes, in which second, third and fourth horses were less than a length back of the winners, the favorites were again treated very unceremoniously by the outsiders this afternoon.

Postmistress Wins Opener.

Postmistress led all the way to win the first race. Ruth Gold, the favorite, was never better than fourth and Merwick, the whistled "good thing," was in the same class, also ran.

It was not until the fifth race

BANGLE GAINS ANOTHER VICTORY FOR TOMMY HITCHCOCK'S STABLE

STEEPLECHASER WINNER OVER RABEL AND FREDDEN ROCK

By the Associated Press.

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., June 27.—Thomas Hitchcock's silks were carried to victory in the $3500 added Windmill Steeplechase Handicap, which was run over the two-mile course here today, when Bangie, with the crushing impact of 160 pounds up, made a show of his field. He was ridden by A. C. Bostwick and he rode a perfect race. Bangie, because of the heavy weight, was practically neglected in the betting. Rabel, the odds-on favorite, was second, with Fredder Rock third.

Crawford, who had the mount of Rabel, rode a poor race, allowing the favorite to trail the field for about a mile and a half and when he made his move the horse was not equal to the task and Bangie won by six lengths, while Rabel took the place by three lengths.

Second Straight for Bangie.

The victory was the second straight for Bangie and the twelfth for the stable in the present meeting and the 12th at Belmont. The stable's record of 12 firsts, seven seconds and four thirds, with three unplaced, in the two meetings.

The Alabama Stable's We, well played at 5-1, scored a romp in winning the first race, a five-furlong sprint, down the chute and it was run in 1:02.15. Take Your Time finished second and Sea Bright third. Irish Holiday made the early pace, leading by two lengths to the final furlong, where We took the lead and won by three lengths. Take Your Time was second by a half length over Sea Bright.

Sun Bean Is Victor.

Sun Bean, W. S. Kilmer's good colt, carrying 12½ pounds, won the Carbuncle Handicap mile dash leading home a good field of horses. Tantivy was second and Tara's Hall third. Byrd finished third but was disqualified for fouling. Tantivy cut out the early pace, leading by a length or so to the stretch where Sun Bean came along, took command and won by three lengths. Tantivy was second by a half length over Sun Bean.

Nice Work.

Since "Rabbit" Maranville quit hitting the high spots his play is said to have been one of the high spots in the success of the club.

THE "Rabbit" who was rather T gay.

Is more sedate and solemn; He saw the error of his way and shunned the error column.

Quite So.

In his drooping Panama hat, purple suit and tan shirt Jimmy Walker, who is said to be one of the most colorful delegates to the Houston convention, is dressing the part.

See where Edd Roush has reversed his usual procedure by jumping the team at about the time he used to sign up and start to work.

Horan, Polly Burnside, Islam, Mary Walker, Jean Valjean, Hard Tack, Venetia M. Maria Nash and Chioola. The Cincinnati Trophy carries a value of $5000 added, and will be run over a distance of six furlongs. Last year's renewal was won by E. B. McLean's Toru, winner of the Latonia Derby last Saturday. The race was worth $4500 to the winner.

Crystal Pennant, winner of the Crofton Handicap; Flat Iron, Jack Higgins, Minstrel, Flamingo, and two other good ones will compete in the $15,000 added American National Turf and Field Handicap at Arlington Saturday. The race is one of the features of the meeting, and will be run over a mile and one-sixteenth. More than 120 horses are eligible to race.

The other feature Saturday is the Tremont Stakes at Aqueduct, for 2-year-olds at six furlongs. Divoto, owned by Wheatley Stable, won last year and earned $11,200.

All the stars in the 2-year-old division are eligible to compete in the Dwyer. In addition to Victorian and Vito, the field is expected to be made up of Sun Beau, Saratoga, David Bone, Gerard, Strolling Player, Genie and Ironsides. The latter two are sons of the great sire, Man o' War. Ironsides, owned by Robert L. Gerry, defeated Vito in a hard stretch drive in the Doncaster Handicap at Aqueduct yesterday and as a result stamped himself as one of the best 3-year-olds in the East. According to the foot notes on the chart of the handics, Vito raced well up but tired near the end. The race was at one mile and one-sixteenth and Vito was under an impact of 126 pounds. Ironsides carried 116.

Trophy at Latonia.

THE feature at Latonia is the Cincinnati Trophy, for 2-year-olds. The race closed for entries Feb. 8 with 126 nominations. E. S. Clark heads the list of nominators with 11. Among the colts he entered is Herrick, winner of the Harold Stakes. Andley Farm Stable is next, with eight. Among the juvenile stars eligible are The Shah, Madison, Lee Cooper, Frank and the others.

One of the best bargains in the history of French racing is Ogen Mills' Cri de Guerre, winner of the Grand Prix de Paris, last Sunday.

Cri de Guerre was entered with ironclad hope. Mills sending him to the post chiefly to have a representative in the great race. Cri de Guerre is a son of Martial III.

His dam, a 10-year-old daughter of A. d'Aubut, was sold for $2000 francs, about $12, when her racing career ended in 1922.

The sire is a Government stallion which stands at a fee of 200 francs, about $8. Cri de Guerre was sold at the Deauville yearling sales for 1300 francs, less than $75.

ESPINOSA WINS
MID-AMERICAN
GOLF TOURNEYBETTENCOURT
AND CROWDER
STAR IN FINAL WITH INDIANS

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 27.—Al Espinosa, veteran Chicago professional who failed to show in the National Open at Chicago last week, warmed up on the woods-difficult Lakewood golf course here, scored an ace, an eagle and a flock of birdies and clinched the mid-American golf title and first money of $150 yesterday. He finished five strokes ahead of the field with 289, one over par, and one over even fours for the 72 holes.

Although playing good golf throughout, it was his 65 Monday, four under par, that tied Espinosa over. His opening round went to 74, and he recorded 75-72 yesterday.

Archie Compton, the giant British star, who went out the opening two days with Walter Hagen, and scorched the course to best "the Haig," finished second with 241 after constantly threatening the Chicagoan's lead. Compton's card read 72-77-73-72-294, his only bad round being the second.

Farrell Gets 363 Total.

Les Dierel went to pieces coming home in the final day after being pitted with Compton at lunch, and finished in the tie with Jack Burke of Houston, Tex., with 287 total.

Joe Kirkwood of Albany, Ga., trick stick artist, came in fourth with 248, and Ed Dudley of Los Angeles was next with 299. Light-horse Harry Cooper of Buffalo took 305, and Aubrey Boomer of France 307. Joe Turness got a 304.

Johnnie Farrell, worn to a frazzle by a week of continuous tournament play, fell to 302, while Hagen dropped still farther down to 306. Rufus Stewart of Australia took 305, and Aubrey Boomer of France 307. Joe Turness got a 304.

The team opened at home, the standing was 17-22, 456. Now the club has a mark of 35-31, 530. Then the team gained 94 percent points and won four games with five points behind the .500 mark to tie contests over the 50-50 figure for the season. This from a club which in the pre-season selections was picked generally for seventh or eighth place.

Closes to Second Place.

The sport of the Browns has put the team close to second place. The Athletics are not too far ahead. In fact only 3 games separate the men of Howley and Clark. Thus a four-game losing streak for the Mackmen, while the Browns won four would put the St. Louis team in front of the fast-traveling Yankees.

The coming road trip will prove a test for the Browns. The last showed anything but a success. Starting at Detroit, the Browns will visit Chicago then hike East and then back to Cleveland before returning to Sportsman's Park July 25.

The road schedule for Howley's men is as follows:

June 28, 29, 30, July 1—At Detroit.

July 2, 3, 4—At Chicago.

July 6, 7, 8, 9—At New York.

July 10, 11, 12, 13—At Boston.

July 14, 15, 16, 17—At Washington.

July 19, 20, 21, 22—At Philadelphia.

July 22, 23—At Cleveland.

The two postposed games will be played at a time later. Starting at Detroit, the team on this occasion of enemy territory will go home to Cleveland before returning to Sportsman's Park July 25.

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—Jackie Fields of Los Angeles won his first bout in the welterweight ranks here last night by a technical knockout score over Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh. The referee stopped the scheduled 18-round bout in the seventh round when Zivic was hanging on the ropes helpless.

He met Neil the first time in a battle that was a classic. Neil, himself a puncher of the first water, knew too much for his foe, and finally outpointed him in 25 rounds.

The issue between them was wide open and when they fought again the place was passed to the guards. Another close interchange resulted, with Tenny unable to shake Neil's hold. In the fourteenth round Neil slipped Tenny's left, crossed his right and Tenny went down, whanging his head on the ground at second base and when at bat he was found in the clean-up position.

During his sophomore year he was an all-outfielder but later was shifted to the infield. His hitting helped the team to win many of its games and just when he was looked upon to aid the 1927 nine he took sick and was out of the game the bigger part of the season.

When he joins the Indians this week he will be tried at the initial task to which he was shifted this season.

His college baseball boss, Coach Jim Wood, expects big things from him, remarking, "Caldwell should prove to be another Hornsby."

The Knockout King.

NOT so many years ago there flourished a fighter who probably had more knockouts to his credit than any other boxer in the book today. He was George "Knockout King" He won the name on his jersey, and when he ended his career he had, if memory serves, 171 knockouts to his credit.

But he was a built-up ruputation, to a certain extent; and his lack of genuine class was proved when, at the height of his career, he fought Charlie Johnny Kilbane, and himself took a knockout powder in the third round.

WRAY'S COLUMN

By Gerald Holland.

Ralph Snoddy, who will drive Jim Falbella, Miss Rico in the speedboat race here next week, slipped into town without jammimg traffic but there are quarters where his arrival might call for a flare of the trumpets.

Where boat racing is accepted, Snoddy is well known as a daring and successful driver. During the winter season, for instance, he won five of the six important races, the other going to Dick Lyons, his old rival, when Miss Rico acted up and over near the finish.

He holds every record for his division with the exception of that for the 2½-mile lap, which belongs to Lyons.

Snoddy at present holds the Elgin Trophy, the big $8000 cup. He won it at San Diego earlier this year when he nosed out Dick Lyons. In fact, Snoddy and Lyons have been racing because only a bunch of scientific fighters like Tunney, Sharkey and Leughran remain.

Like the baseball catcher's mask and shin guards these protective devices for boxers are fairly new. The headguard covers the ears and comes well down over the brows.

This isn't much chance of an accidental blow doing any damage.

Cuts received in training have sometimes caused a man's death in the ring.

Naturally Charley wants to go to the ring against my having any cuts—either healed or unhealed on the night of July 26.

Lots of people have been asking me what my plan of campaign will be against Tunney. I'm limited and the unlimited, the latter being those equipped with superchargers. Lyons and Snoddy carry two pairs of each type and make the change over night. Their boats will be eligible for the free-for-all division.

To Use Natural Style.

Gene is a boxer, a great boxer. When Dempsey fought him the first time in Philadelphia everybody thought he would stay on the defensive at the start and feel Jack out. What happened?

Tunney went at Dempsey, and cracked him with a right at the beginning. If a man has set one and something upsets it he may have a harder time getting started on another one. I'm going into fight the champion just as I've fought everybody else; keep hustling all the time, keep crowding him. You can call that a plan, if you want, but it's just my natural style.

There's no reason to worry.

There was a lot more reason to fret the first fight I had, against a big fellow named Sullivan, down in New Zealand.

I've never seen Tunney fight.

Maybe that's just as well, too.

He fights right differently against me than he would someone else, and I'd go in there with a false idea.

Tommy Loughran watched Leo Lomaki fight Yale Okun and Tom Marullo. Tom is smart, but he became convinced that Leo's best was a left hook to the body, and that he didn't have a right hand that was worth talking about. What happened? Tommy went in against Lomaki a bit careless about Leo's right, and the first things that happened to Leo clipped him with it and almost knocked him out.

Now, the fact is Tunney knows that he's a champion and that he's been hoodwinked into thinking that he's not a champion. I'll be ready for anything and won't underestimate anything. That's the best I can do.

Heeney Writes He Will Have No Set Plan For Battling Gene Tunney

By Tom Heeney,

As Told to a Representative of the Post-Dispatch.

FARIRHAVEN, N. J., June 27.—Charley Harvey has been having quite a bit of time getting me to wear a headguard while I am boxing. This thing annoys me. I know as well as anyone that it might prevent a nasty cut that would handicap me later. I know, too, that nearly every fighter wears one while going through the daily grind, though Gene Tunney is an exception to that rule. Probably he's sensible, and I have given in to Charley, but it bothers me just the same.

THREE-1 INFILDER

ERS AFTER 33 GAMES

WITHOUT A MISCE

By the Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ill., June 27.—When Urban Pickering, third baseman of the Decatur Three-Eye League club, made a wild throw to first in the second game of a double-header yesterday, he broke his string of 33 consecutive games without a bobble.

Pickering, a young outfielder, was placed on third by Manager Frank Desau this spring and handed 149 successive chances without an error. He is also hitting at a .340 clip.

Mello Wins Decision.

BOSTON, June 27.—Al Mello, New England welterweight champion, won a close 10-round decision over his Lowell fellow townsman, fight the harder when stung.

CHARLES IS VICTOR IN

BATTLE WITH DORVAL

NEW YORK, June 27.—Pierre Charles, the Belgian heavyweight, fighting in the best form he has yet shown here, won in eight out of 10 rounds over Jack Dorval in the feature 10 last night in the Queensboro Stadium. It was claimed after the battle that Dorval had put his left hand out of commission in the first round. He showed at times everything that goes to make a heavyweight contender of class, but the Belgian seemed to have a lot of stuff himself, plus true fighting instinct.

The improvement in form uncovered by the Belgian over his last start was a genuine surprise. He had developed a left that is a very effective weapon and with it poured piston-like jabs into the face of his opponent that was a tribute to his accuracy in face of Dorval's speed of foot. At times Dorval crossed over a well-timed right that seemed to carry plenty of sting, but the high courage that has already been amply displayed by the Belgian, only made him fight the harder when stung.

RAMONA DOG TRACK SEEKS REHEARING OF OUSTER ORDER

Effect Is to Suspend Issuance of Supreme Court Mandate Till Appeal Is Ruled On.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 27.—A rehearing on the decision of the Missouri Supreme Court en banc for overruling the charter of the Ramona Kennel Club of St. Louis County, and ousting the club from operation in the State, was sought in a motion filed today by attorneys for the club. This suspends the issuance of the court's mandate, until the motion is passed upon.

The club contends the court was in error in granting a writ of ouster upon overruling the club's de-murrer merely raised law points, and after it was overruled, the club should have been permitted to file answer to the suit, and proceed to make a defense on the merits of the case.

The defense that the club had not been in operation long enough to make use of its corporate privileges, other than conducting a track for dog racing, again is made in the rehearing motion.

The club was incorporated in February, 1927, and the winter suit was filed in October of that year.

The court passed upon that point in finding the club had failed to use its charter privilege.

URGES METROPOLITAN AREA COUNTY-CITY RULE

Judge Hodgdon Opposes Destroying Local Self-Government by Merger.

Probate Judge Hodgdon of St. Louis County advocated a metropolitan area form of government to co-ordinate St. Louis and the county, at a dinner at Hotel Chase last night in his honor, because of his service in the plan for making the St. Louis metropolitan bridge. Judge Hodgdon, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, has been an opponent of outright merger of city and county.

"A greater St. Louis," he told the audience of 250 persons, "is desired by the citizens of both city and county. This problem has confronted all the cities of the world. They secured the advice of city planners and experts and found that for a city to take into its boundaries undeveloped farming territory many times its own size and give it city facilities, such as water mains, fire plugs, engine houses and street lights would treble the taxes of the city or mean bankruptcy to the city in taxation and if they made improvements by special tax bills in the undeveloped territory it would mean confiscation.

Cities Results Elsewhere.

"Accordingly, it was the opinion here, from experience and study, that to avoid bankruptcy and confiscation there was only one satisfactory plan, namely, the metropolitan area. The plan obtains in Boston, composed of 33 cities; in Chicago, 28 cities; Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and many other American cities. London is only one mile square, but a metropolitan commission provides things in common to 125 municipalities containing 11,000,000 persons.

"The next Missouri Legislature could set up a metropolitan plan for the city and county that would provide things in common to both, without destroying local self-government in either. This would permit the counting of the population of the entire area in the 1930 census as Greater St. Louis, as is done in Boston, London and all other cities in the world. The county will co-operate heartily in working out a plan that will benefit both and harm neither."

Committees Seek Expert.
Joint committees of the city and county Chambers of Commerce now are looking for a suitable expert to draw up a scheme of metropolitan area control here. Judge Hodgdon also spoke in favor of home rule for St. Louis police affairs, instead of gubernatorial control.

The idea of freeing the St. Charles bridge of tolls was suggested by him at a County Optimist Club dinner in 1925. Judge Hodgdon recalled, just because he wished to "say something pleasant." However, a committee representing the St. Louis and Wellington Optimist clubs and the St. Charles Chamber of Commerce, headed by the Judge, was appointed immediately, and arranged with the bridge company to take over the structure by using tolls to maintain it and pay off the stockholders at the agreed price of $1,250,000. The speaker reiterated the statement, made a number of weeks ago, that the tolls would be eliminated by 1930, when the bridge will become public and the State Highway Department likely will build aprons on each end of it to be used by lighted traffic.

Former Circuit Judge Josse McDonald, who helped prepare the bridge purchase plan, was to have been honored at the banquet also, but could not attend because of a bereavement. Robert E. Lee was toastmaster and speakers included John B. Edwards, Circuit Judge Mullaney of the County, Henry Reeves, president of the St. Charles Chamber of Commerce, and S. M. Rudder, division engineer for the State Highway Department.

WOMAN SAID TO HEAD BAND OF MEXICAN TRAIN WRECKERS

"Colonel Agrippina" Blamed for Accident in Which Two of Crew Were Killed.

MEXICO CITY, June 27.—Newspapers today said that a woman was the leader of the band of insurgents which wrecked the Laredo, Mexico City train killing the engineer and fireman. Other recent attempts to wreck trains near Queretaro also were attributed to the woman, who styles herself "Col. Agrippina."

She was reported to have taken the field as the leader of a band in Guanajuato some months ago. The War Department has maintained that it had no knowledge of her activities, but newspaper reports of the activities have persisted.

Secretary of Interior Work
Expected to Advise Presi-

Next Week.

NO DIRECT WORD
ON NOMINEE'S VISIT

Chief Executive to Celebrate Birthday July 4—Goes to Superior Offices for First Time.

Mr. Coolidge has received no direct word from Secretary Hoover as to whether the Republican nominee expects to stop here early in July on his way to California. The chief executive, however, came from Secretary of State Kellogg when the latter pays his annual visit to St. Paul, Minn., home next Monday.

The cabin and part of the upper bracing were torn away. All those in the cabin were hurled to the ice. One of Nobile's legs was fractured and he was badly injured. Nobile, however, also suffered a fracture of the leg, and Dr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish meteorologist, Prof. E. Behounek, meteorologist; Giuseppe Biagi, radio operator; Filippo Troiani, engineer; Capt. Alberto Mariano, pilot, and Capt. Filippo Zappi, navy navigator.

Cried "Viva Italia."

A minute after the plunge Nobile and his companions cried "Viva Italia," as was told in Nobile's first radio messages.

The chief executive yesterday informed the press that the men in the balloon part of the dirigible should be made within a 30-mile radius of the marooned men. These men today had drifted to about 20 miles East of Foyon Cape.

The President has not given a thought as to how his birthday on July 4 would be celebrated. He has been taken for granted that Coolidge would produce a birthday cake in honor of the occasion, as she has done in past years. John Coolidge, their son, will arrive here next Saturday Sunday, will be present to witness what festivities are arranged.

President and Mrs. Coolidge have enjoyed their vacation so far. They have been bothered neither by mosquitoes nor by the bad weather which prevailed for the first week of their stay. While the woods surrounding Cedar Island lodge are swarming with mosquitoes, these do not reach the residence itself.

The President is especially appreciative of the fishing the estate provides. Yesterday in only a short time he caught seven trout, including a three and one-half pound rainbow.

either a gasoline or an oil tank caught fire, and that the balloon crashed on the ice with its six occupants.

These were Lieut. Ettore Ardulano, navy navigator; Prof. Aldo Mazzoni, scientist; Dr. Ugo La Malfa, correspondent of the newspaper Popolare d'Italia; Renato Alessandri, envelope attendant; Attilio Caratti and Calisto Cloetta, motor attendants.

Salvaged Radio Apparatus.

The radio apparatus was rescued from the debris by the Nobile party. Its receiving set functioned, but the sending apparatus was damaged. Five days the castaways struggled to repair it.

Finally three members of the party, Dr. Malmgren and Captains Mariano and Zappi started afloat for land on May 30. They were to direct rescue parties to the six men left behind on the ice. They had food enough for more than 40 days and also possessed instruments and maps to help them to make their way over the Arctic wastes.

They had had winter outfitts from the cabin but no tent or arms. Malmgren and his two companions estimated they would be able to make a march of six miles daily toward Foyon Island. Those that remained behind continued to make their way over the ice and found they only made five miles the first day. As they continued their march they disappeared from view and have not been seen since.

Fog and snow at Spitzbergen continued today and prevented any attempt to search for the missing crew of the Italia or to save the six men on the ice. It also held up search for Roald Amundsen and five men who set out with him from Norway last Monday to join the rescue operations.

The Italian naval attaché at Stockholm today informed the rescue workers that the Swedish Government had ordered two planes to join in the relief operations. They are expected to arrive at Spitzbergen Sunday.

Two Italian planes and a Swiss flying boat were waiting at Virgo Bay for the fog to lift so that they could continue operation. The ice breaker Braganza, which has the Norwegian flyers, Capt. Riser-Larsen and Lieut. Luetzow Holm aboard, was locked in the ice off North Cape.

Gen. Nobile thinks search for the men in the balloon part of the dirigible should be made within a 30-mile radius of the marooned men. These men today had drifted to about 20 miles East of Foyon Cape.

The Public Utility Buccaneers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PLEASE accept sincerest congratulations for your fine editorial "The Public Utility Buccaneers." A masterpiece of conciseness and courage, it has won you many an admiring friend and supporter in your fearless and uncompromising crusade against monopolies. There is a presidential election coming and that perfidious bunch of "Republican prosperity" is again being fed to the people by a press subservient to big business first, last and all the time. But, thank God, there remains one great newspaper to champion the down-trodden and abused cause of the multitude of the American people, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Messrs. Mellon, Smoot and Vare at Kansas City have nominated Mr. Hoover, who promises to continue Mr. Coolidge's administration of prosperity" and the dollars of the power trusts. Mr. Mellon's aluminum trust, Mr. Smoot's sugar trusts and Mr. Vare's famous election methods should put him in the White House. Teapot Dome, Continental Trading Co., the Three Rivers Country Club, the black satchel, Nervous Nellie's day dreams, the political gold dust twirls, the Allen Property administration, and a score of other things will be explained as inventions of Russian Bolsheviks and an unimpeachably honest newspaper like the Post-Dispatch is branded as a flaming red radical. (I am taking my hat off twice to the one member of its staff who qualifies for "Bolshevistic leanings.")

Never in all history have there been trusts and monopolies of such tremendous proportions as we have them here today under the sponsorship of Republican big business. We have the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, but—to quote Goldberg—it doesn't mean anything. Largely through the Post-Dispatch we have learned of Ward Bakewell's case before the Federal Trade Commission and in Federal Court. Today that company is rapidly approaching the state of an absolute monopoly in bread. Mr. Coolidge's man Myers had been encouraged to merge some 100 large bakeries. Like the ugly fangs of the octopus of Fitzpatrick's inspired cartoon, the prospering trusts are ensnaring and slowly crushing the multitude of small business men and manufacturers.

Now I ask, where will things come to if we have some more Mellon-Coolidge prosperity? Mr. Hoover has promised to continue Mellon-Coolidgeism, can we afford to vote for him? For the life of me I cannot see it. With your recent correspondent, Mr. W. E. Beveridge, I exclaim: Whence Government is this, anyway?

Here is fervent hope that your splendid Sunday editorial to the Houston Convention will be recognized for its formidable truth and we can vote for the champions of good government by and for the people, Smith, Reed or still better, for both.

Rich, Rare and Peculiar.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM so glad that you printed the article by John Macy in the Nation, concerning George Bernard Shaw's new book—"The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism and Capitalism." It is rich, rare and peculiar. It will take six years to write it. It will take about 18 minutes to say what I have to say.

Shaw seems to delight in confounding, confusing, flabbergassing and otherwise ruining all of our previously established intellectual standards—and he gets away with it.

But back of all this, Shaw desires to carry his message and he does it. Why do not the Scots and the Americans produce men like Shaw and Chesterfield?

JAMES MOORE'S BALL.

The Post-Dispatch Editorial Page.

WHEN a guy writes to say how much he likes or dislikes you, you always have the thought back in your head: what in 'ell does he know about a newspaper, anyway?

Well, once upon a time I was editor of the editorial page, and everything else but the mechanical department, of a little dinky Oklahoma daily, and later, of a radical magazine that had a (claimed) circulation of half-a-million.

This may not make my opinion worth a damn anyway. But I have very decided ones.

The Post-Dispatch editorial page is a delight to me. I'm just fool enough to think that there never was a more admirable staff anywhere, any time, than you folks. You always produce at least one cracking good editorial a day. I mean GOOD.

NO FIFTY-YEAR GRADE CROSSING.

Section 50 of Article III of the Public Service Commission act reads:

No public road, highway or street shall hereafter be constructed across the track of any railroad corporation or be constructed across a public road, highway or street at grade, nor shall the track of any railroad corporation be constructed across the track of any other railroad or street railroad corporation at grade, nor shall the track of a street railroad corporation be constructed across the track of a railroad corporation at grade, without having first secured the permission of the commission: Provided, that this subsection shall not apply to the replacement of lawfully existing tracks. The commission shall have the right to refuse its permission or to grant it under such terms and conditions as it may prescribe.

MR. BOWERS KEEPS THE FAITH.

Claude Bowers sounded the keynote of the Democratic presidential campaign at the Houston convention in a spicy, pungent speech. There was enough history in it to distinguish sharply between the Jeffersonian and Hamiltonian conceptions of Government, but, for the most part, it was blasting commentary on the eight years of plunder and privilege now drawing to a close in Washington. The speech sparkled with phrases which are likely to be quoted frequently in the next few months. In its entirety it is, we think, the most devastating picture of the corrupt alliance between Government and privilege which the reign of the Ohio gang has inspired. Certainly this speech has one extraordinary merit which few keynote speeches attain. It will be read. In that respect it is in galloping contrast with the dreary rodentomach which Senator Fess contributed to the Kansas City proceedings.

It is fashionable nowadays to assert that there is no essential difference between the major parties, that the only distinction between them is that the "ins" want to stay in and the "outs" want to get in.

It is doubtless true that there are many members of the Republican party who, in outlook, sympathy and political philosophy, do not belong in that party. The same is equally true of the Democratic party. But the fact remains, nevertheless, that the Hamiltonian and Jeffersonian theories of Government are the antitheses of each other and so long as these parties profess allegiance respectively to the principles advocated by Hamilton and Jefferson they are necessarily antagonistic.

Mr. Bowers makes this plain in his citations of the fundamentals. Hamilton believed that Government was successful only as it was profitable to the powerful, and the Kansas City convention reiterated that doctrine in its enthusiastic commitment to things as they are. Jefferson believed that that government is best which governs least. Under the one theory our democracy has been all swallowed in the insatiable maw of bureaucracy which in the words of an illustrious Republican—Senator Borah of Idaho—"is the most vicious form of government yet devised."

It is the duty of the Democratic party, Mr. Bowers asserts, to re-establish "Government of the people, by the people, for the people." Whether the Democratic party is equal to that task in purpose or vision or courage, we do not know. If it is not it is disbarred from effective protest in the future.

There will be a conference this afternoon of North St. Louis opponents of the franchise, particularly of the grade crossing. The Board of Aldermen should heed this protest. It should take account of the city's policy against grade crossings. It should consider the safety and convenience of the people of North St. Louis.

It is not too late for the Board of Aldermen to stop this outrage. The franchise bill has had its third reading, and will come up for a vote Thursday.

The board should never grant the franchise on the basis of the vote gathered there, has become the life of the party at Houston. Since the moment Jimmie burst upon the astonished gaze of Houston in a drooping Panama, tan silk shirt, purple suit and vanilla-colored cane, he has led an impromptu parade of admirers. To Houston, Jimmie is a new experience. Houston is accustomed to politicians who wear string ties and broad black felt hats, and who speak in sonorous phrases. The dapper Mayor of New York is the antithesis of all that sort of thing.

Bowers, in his keynote speech, has kept the faith.

JIMMIE WALKER.

Jimmie Walker, with all due respect for Will Rogers, Henry Mencken, Bugs Baer and the remainder of the wits gathered there, has become the life of the party at Houston. Since the moment Jimmie burst upon the astonished gaze of Houston in a drooping Panama, tan silk shirt, purple suit and vanilla-colored cane, he has led an impromptu parade of admirers. To Houston, Jimmie is a new experience.

Houston is accustomed to politicians who wear string ties and broad black felt hats, and who speak in sonorous phrases. The dapper Mayor of New York is the antithesis of all that sort of thing.

Before Jimmie had arrived at Houston, word was spread that he had appeared on the platform of his private car at Poplar Bluff clad in his green silk pajamas, and that he had made a speech bristling with typical Walker witticisms. Among other things, he had said that Poplar Bluff could drop the first half of its name and still have a good town. He maintained his reputation for tardiness by over sleeping after his train arrived in Houston and kept the Houston Ladies Band waiting for an hour in the lobby of the Rice Hotel. At length he arrived dripping wisecracks at every pore, and everyone in Houston began committing them to memory.

It is an aphorism in politics that success goes to the solemn, pompous man who, upon the least provocation, can unleash a flow of bromides. Jimmie is perhaps the exception that proves the rule. He is the playboy of politics, who specializes on being himself, just "a good guy from Broadway"; yet he is able, honest and courageous. If he is not the best Mayor of New York, he is not the worst; and certainly he is the most amusing one.

NINTH-INNING HOMERICS.

Now the Cardinals are home, we will be very glad to see some of the ninth-inning Homeric with which they distinguished themselves on the road.

Most of us have been going to baseball games all our lives, and we have never seen anything happen in the ninth inning. The custom at Sportsman's Park is for the crowd to rise at the opening of the ninth inning and filter out slowly, a few hardy souls remaining at the exits long enough to see the last out.

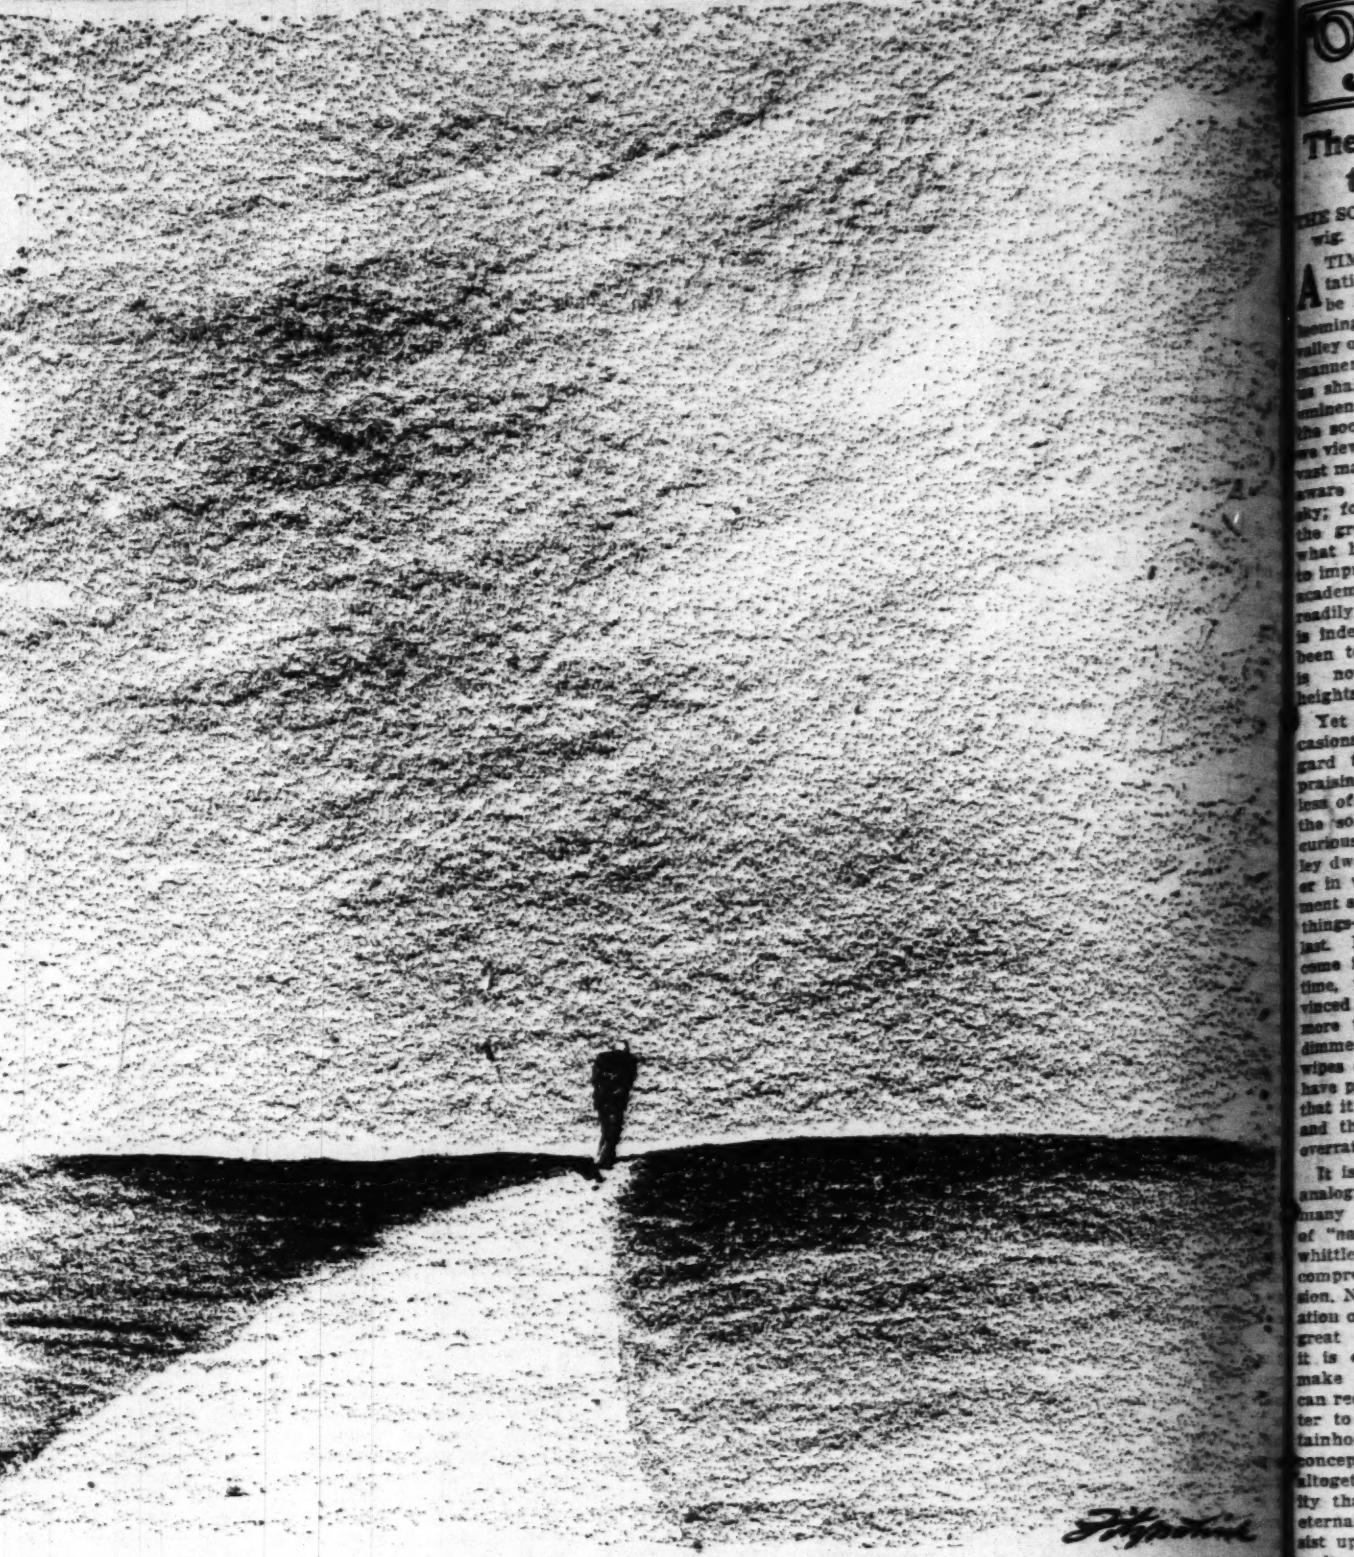

The Cardinals made a specialty of ninth-inning finishes on the road. At Boston, with the score 2 to 1 against them when the ninth inning opened, the redoubtable Hafey, who would have delighted any of the epic poets, hit a home run with one on and won the game. The next day, playing at Brooklyn, Bottomley hit a home run with two on in the fourteenth inning and won the game, 5 to 2. Twenty-four hours later, again playing Brooklyn, Blades tied the score in the ninth with a home run that brought in two men, and the Cardinals won in the eleventh, 6 to 5. In the last game on the road, played in Cincinnati, they tied the score in the ninth and won it in the eleventh, when Blades hit a triple with three on. Thus of their 21 victories on the trip the Cardinals won four after they were beaten. John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, who has closely followed throughout his career the Greek strategy before Troy, says they displayed more fight than any of the Western teams in the recent inter-sectional series.

Like Homer himself, we can only regret that we never saw any of these mighty deeds. Is it too much to hope that something of the sort may happen while the team is at home?

The GARDEN VARIETY OF TAN.

From the Detroit News.

"The back-yard garden hasn't received quite so much publicity as was awarded it during the war, but it is quite important now as ever. As an economic factor for the entire country, its value lies less in its production than its 'by-products.'

Smith, Prohibition and the South

Smith's Wetness Should Not Blind the South to the Fact That, Because of His Democratic Heritage, He Is Its Present Friend and Potential Champion; Smith Can Be Nominated and Elected With or Without the Support of the Ultra-Dry Southern Democrats.

From the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer Sun.

GOVT. SMITH'S statement that he has not changed his belief that "there should be amendment of the present prohibition provisions" surprises no one who is familiar with the record of the New York executive. His record is a record of honesty and courage.

Smith's declaration came almost on the eve of the Houston convention. There his embattled enemies, obsessed by a formula of degenerate Republicanism and sanctified (some of them) in the doctrine that the eighteenth amendment is as inviolable as the laws of Moses and the Medes and Persians, are frantically making noises in a last-ditch stand to prevent his nomination. They will not succeed, of course. But the Smith statement adds fuel to their flames—makes the shouting louder—prods the fanatic "dry" where they are sore and reanimates their virtuous resolution to whoop and do and maybe die for the most noble cause of prohibition. In the face of such a rumpus Gov. Smith might well have remained silent. Better than average men would have remained silent. For it would have been the proof of expediency to remain silent, and no one would have severely criticized him had he done so.

But one of the most remarkable characteristics of Gov. Smith is his capacity to rise above the level of the politician and do the thing which is not expedient. His views on prohibition are in absolute accord with the principles of such Democrats as Jefferson, Cleveland, Wilson. They are not in accord with the views of Democrats who have strayed into the marches of moral panaceas and Republican centralization. A lesser man than Smith would have kept mum—would, at any rate, have avoided the risk of alienating possible supporters by issuing an evasive statement subject to interpretation both ways. Smith chose the勇敢的. To sorrow is added vexation. The last song never achieves that note of exhaustion, that feeling that there will be no along in a minute. That is what is to be with it. ## Of Making Men JOHN G. NEIMAN

The Mountain and the Weather

SON OF MAN. By Emil Ludwig (Boni & Liveright).

A TIME-defying legend or reputation or historical event may be likened to a lofty mountain rising above the commonplaces; and the manner in which the generality of the world is affected by such an influence will depend largely upon the social weather through which it passes. For the most part, the vast majority of us will scarcely be aware of it, for our eyes are fixed upon the ground under our feet, and what has become familiar ceases to impress. As a matter of purely academic interest, we may grant readily enough that the mountain is indeed a tall one, as we have been told; but our daily business is not concerned with dizzy heights.

Even when, upon special occasions, we are persuaded to regard the mountain with an appraising eye, what we see will be the mountain itself in the view of the social weather. And it is a curious fact about most of us valley dwellers that the social weather in which we move at the moment seems to be the final state of things—the absolute weather at last. If the mountain should become invisible in the fog of the situation, we are likely to be convinced that it never was anything more than an illusion. If it be dimmed by drifting mist, and cloud wrecks out the shining summit, we have proof enough before our eyes that it never was a splendid thing and that its altitude was greatly overrated by our forefathers.

It is sufficient to suggest the analogy, and to point out that many mountain peaks in our day of "naturalistic" fog have been whittled down to altitudes more comprehensible in our state of vision. Not only is this radical alteration of views inevitable with every great change of the world-wide; it is even desirable for us to make use of only that which we can receive, and doubtless it is better to know something of mountainhood than to wipe the very consciousness out of our consciousness altogether. In a time of low visibility, those affected, seems external. It would be folly to insist upon any vision of a heaven-sent peak aloof in some serene infinity of starlight. We know the convincing knowledge of our eyes that such things could never be. You can't fool us!

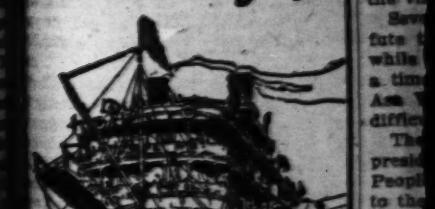

Of all the contemporary world's professional re-shapers of the lofty mountain of the time, Emil Ludwig surely one of the most admirable. He is, of necessity, a prad-

CHARLES D. COMFORT, VETERAN OF '98, DIES

Colonel of Volunteers, 71, Was Former President of City Council.

Charles D. Comfort, former president of the old City Council and a Spanish-American War veteran, died at Veterans' Hospital No. 92, below Jefferson Barracks, yesterday afternoon, of cancer. He entered the hospital three weeks ago.

Col. Comfort, who was 71 years old last May, was born in St. Louis, James Hall Comfort, an attorney and trustee of Princeton Union University. He was born in St. Louis, the family residence at that time being at 1403 Olive street. Educated in the St. Louis public schools, he took an active interest in politics and became president of the City Council in 1886 when David R. Francis was Mayor. During this period he was also Colonel of the First Missouri Cavalry, in which he had been listed as a tall one, as we have been told; but our daily business is not concerned with dizzy heights.

What we have here is a lofty human tragedy that has been enacted in various lands at various times throughout the history of mankind, and shall be enacted again and again with varying degrees of intensity, whenever a greater personality is created for realization in the realm of brute sense.

The author assures us that, though he has improvised his narrative links between the major events of his tale, he has conscientiously striven to build his book wholly upon the Gospels. There are many people who will deny that he has succeeded, for there are crucial moments in the story as told that are not to be read into any portion of the New Testament.

But there is no good reason for condemning the book on this or any other score. From the author's frankly stated viewpoint, it is a thoroughly honest book, and should be read, if at all, as Ludwig's own interpretation. "A prophet was to be portrayed," he says, "a man greater than all his contemporaries and nevertheless unable to cope with the world into which he had been born. Not that the author supposes the interpretation here put forward to be the only one conceivable. It is one among many possible interpretations; and aspires, at least, to be in harmony with the spirit of our own birth."

It is not better to see a mountain in any weather than never to be aware of loftiness at all?

After reading Ludwigs' "The Son of Man," look up a copy of a book entitled "By an Unknown Disciple." It was published by the Duttons something like eight years ago, and has attracted very little attention. It tells the story of Jesus and is essentially quite "modern," but there is a luminous quality in it that sets it far above even Ludwigs' book.

THOUSANDS OF YOUNG FOLK TO ATTEND BAPTIST MEETING

Will Gather at Kansas City From All Parts of Country From July 4 to 8.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—By special train and motor car thousands of young folk will come here July 4 for the annual convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of North America. The convention will continue through July 8.

Several states will send large delegations. Illinois expects to send 200 young men and women to attend the session, and Iowa likely will be represented by 300.

Detroit is one of the cities making a strong bid for the 1929 convention, and for that reason a delegation expected to number 150 will come from Michigan. Nebraska hopes to send 100.

Several delegates sought to refute the charge of the father, while others supported him. For a time the chairman, the Rev. J. Lee White of Berkeley, Cal., had difficulty in keeping order.

The Rev. Mark F. Sanford, pastor of the Baptist Young People of America, of Detroit came to the defense of the delegates, and declared that the two children of the fundamentalist leader referred to, far from losing their faith in Christ, were now doing wonderful work in the church.

LONDON, June 27.—The Daily Mail says Mrs. Dorothy Muriel Dennistoun, central figure in the 1925 suit involving her former husband, his second wife, the Countess of Carnarvon; Sir John S. Cowan and several others, is married to Col. Nicholas Woerodys, formerly an aid to the late Czar.

Woerodys is manager of an antique furniture business which Mrs. Dennistoun established after she obtained judgment against Ian Onslow Read for loans she had made to him while they were married. The suit involved about $47,000 but the cost in money ran to 12 times that amount and it blotted the reputation of a whole social circle.

Day by Day in Houston

By O. O. McIntyre

HOUSTON, Tex., June 27.

To be awakened at 4 a. m. by a dinky little band that ran out of wind or something and expired on a whirling note is bad enough to have a shaving brush with a lead handle, fall 11 stories from a window ledge to the street approaches the calamitous.

Any moment I am expecting the constabulary to knock on the door and inform me the passing pedestrian, just removed the morgue, was somebody prominent like Jim Reed or Mayor Walker.

To sit a tight fitting cap on a morning of chills that was the incident of locking trunk lid on the southernmost section of my coat tail and dragging it across the room to telephone for help.

Some people would have thought of slipping out of the coat but I'm not the type.

Yet I arrived at convention hall as is my wont—all merry and bright and ready to do my bit in making history. In fact I expect to be a bigger help here than I was in Kansas City.

I HAVE never been much of a fig boy. Figs never got much of a foothold in our home. We were round steaks people. But everywhere you go in Texas they offer you a fig. They have them preserved, in ice cream, cake, soda water, candy and in the nude. What the praline is to New Orleans, the fig is to Texas. And one ought to be able right here to whittle a wheeze about fig-uratively speaking.

ETWEEN BLAKELY, one of the picturesque ranchmen hereabouts, is the impresario of a rodeo that is thrilling the crowds between history making. He has brought all the bronk-busters from Oklahoma, Wyoming and other states to the arena.

Some people would have thought of slipping out of the coat but I'm not the type.

It is my wont—alright and bright and ready to do my bit in making history. In fact I expect to be a bigger help here than I was in Kansas City.

WILL ROGERS' seat is next to mine and if there was ever a filibuster-glibber guy he is it. His jaws snap 100 times to the minute and when he is not wiggling his feet he is shifting from one hip to another or rolling a lead pencil between his palms. I wasn't there half an hour before he had worked me into a spell of the jerks. By night I expect I'll be picking imaginary things off myself.

"If you can't sit still, go on home," I finally told him.

"Go powder your spats," was his smart alec reply.

THE convention hall here somehow reminds you of one of those beautiful but rather gaudy structures you see at a world's fair. It is within a few minutes' walk of all the leading downtown hotels and it seems to be the holding of tickets has been capable. Although it will probably just be my luck for a ticket scandal to break out tomorrow.

Every lawn in the neighborhood of the hall is dotted with soft drink stands where hopeful young merchants with their lemonade and ginger pop expect to become rich over night.

At hospitality house the overflow sits on comfortable green benches under a battery of several hundred fans and a sound-

CHURCH SEEKS INJUNCTION AGAINST EVICTION ORDER

Pastor Also Asks Court to Force
Realty Concern to Sell Property to Congregation

A suit to restrain the Carriere Realty Co. from evicting the Third Church of New Jerusalem from premises it rents at 2123 St. Louis avenue, was filed by the Rev. Allen T. Clark, pastor, in Circuit Court today. The suit asks the court also to force the Carriere Realty Co. to carry out the terms of an alleged agreement between Dr. C. L. Carriere, late pastor of the church, and his parishioners, providing for the purchase of the property by the church.

Dr. Carriere, who founded the church, died in 1915, and his widow, wife of the church, died in 1916.

After the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents, 6219 Westminster place.

The bride's party will receive in the living room before a background of pink and white blossoms and summer greenery.

The bridal dinner will be served in the dining room, with covers laid for 16 guests, and the decorations of pink and white larkspur and valley lilies. The other guests will be served under the trees in the garden.

The bride's gifts to her attendants are necklaces of white coral from Capri, and Mr. Washburn is giving his groomsmen ebony canes with ivory handles, brought from Egypt.

After a wedding trip, the destination of which has not been announced, Mr. Washburn and his bride will make their home in Chicago.

The out-of-town guests include Dr. and Mrs. James Murray Washburn, parents of the bridegroom; his brother, Richard Washburn; his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Murray Washburn Jr., and his grandmother, Mrs. Edward S. Washburn, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones and Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Morse of Kansas City, and Mrs. J. C. Seaman of Coronado, Cal., a great-aunt of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Endres Meyer Jr. will return tomorrow from Eagle River, Wis., where they leased a cottage for their honeymoon. They will spend the summer with Mrs. Meyer's mother, Mrs. Josephine Drake Boyd, at her home in Kirkwood and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Meyer, 7339 Westland place, who

Every other important studio in Hollywood also uses Lux—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, Universal, Pathé De Mille, Fox, First National, United Artists. Lux saves over a million dollars a year in wardrobe expenses, these great studios find.

THIS ZIEGFELD SHOW USES LUX: IN "ROSALIE," a brilliant Broadway success featuring the adorable Marilyn Miller (center), the sheet, long stockings worn by stars and choruses are kept like new with Lux.
Every other musical show in New York also uses Lux to double the life of stockings. As the Shubert General Manager enthusiastically puts it—"We would

LUX IS SO PURE that the famous New York Maternity Center uses Lux in cleansing all baby things, so that there can be no risk of irritating the baby's tender skin.

This gives vivid proof of the purity of Lux and the great care with which it is made. For organizations such as the Maternity Center have submitted Lux to most rigid analysis and tests before choosing it officially. No wonder Lux never harms delicate colors or fine fabrics.

NAVAL RADIO OPERATOR
KILLED IN BURNING PLANE
Parachute Falls in Rigging of Craft; Pilot Leaps to Safety.
By the Associated Press
VALLEJO, Cal., June 27.—
William Prince, 23 years old, naval radio operator, plunged 2000 feet in a burning airplane to his death near here yesterday. Ensign L. T. Cleaves, pilot, leaped to safety in a parachute. The plane crashed three and a half miles northeast of Vallejo.

The flyers, attached to the U. S. S.
Milwaukee, were conducting radio tests in a Corsair biplane when the ship burst into flames. Prince's parachute fouled in the rigging of the plane, observers said. Prince was listed from Sayan, Conn. Ensign Cleaves is from Norfolk, Va.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., June 27.—
Lincoln Draper, 23, army student pilot at Marchfield here, was killed yesterday when his plane crashed to the ground after a 150-foot fall.
The youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Arthur Draper, live in Portland, Me.

FIRST AIRPLANE RECEPTION OF TELEVISION SUCCESSFUL
Passengers Listen to Voices and See Faces of Persons Miles Away in Radio Studio.
By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 27.—Passengers in a tri-motored monoplane cruised over Chicago yesterday listened to the voices and saw the faces of persons several miles away in a radio studio.

It was the first successful experiment in airplane reception of television.

The broadcasting was from the studios of WCFL, the Chicago Federation of Labor station.

DRIVER'S SENTENCE IS UPHELD
Ark. Miss Sees Five Years.
Special to the Post-Dispatch
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 26.—
A five-year penitentiary sentence imposed upon Frank Ferrell of Morrilton on a charge of assault with an automobile, was upheld by the Arkansas Supreme Court yesterday.

Ferrell ran down Mr. and Mrs.
Tom Hunter while they were walking on the shoulder of a paved highway within the city limits of Morrilton. The woman's clothing or foot caught under the car and she was dragged two or three blocks. Witnesses said the driver never stopped, although the woman was screaming loudly.

CHARGES NAME IS FICTITIOUS

Joseph McCann Seeks to Keep
"L. N. McCann" Off Ballot.
Joseph McCann, candidate for Republican Committeeman in the Twentieth Ward, filed suit in the Circuit Court yesterday to prevent the Board of Election Committee from putting the name of
L. N. McCann, 4319 Kennerly avenue, on the August primary ballot as his rival candidate. He alleges L. N. McCann is a fictitious person and that the name was filed for the purpose of confusing voters by the similarity of names.

McCann has obtained an affidavit from L. N. McCain, a Negro dining car waiter, of the Kennerly avenue address, stating McCain, an unregistered voter, had not filed for committeeman and had no wish to file. The affidavit was made before Justice of the Peace Moon.

MARKSMAN SCORES CRACK SHOT
CINCINNATI, June 27.—A. H.
Apking, former president of the Cincinnati Advertisers Club, and an expert rifle shot, saved a red bird from being devoured by a cat yesterday. He shot the cat through the upper part of its head. The redbird tumbled out of its mouth and fluttered away chirping gratitude.

THE MAN KILLED IN Zinc Mine
WEB CITY, Mo., June 27.—
Robert Thomas of Lakeside, Steve Grant of Purcell, Mo., and J.
Smith of Weir City, Kan., were killed by a falling slab in the Acme zinc mine at Waco this morning.

CALL MONEY TOP SINCE JUNE 1921

Rally in Stock Prices in Face of Further Advance in Rates Overadows All Other Developments in Day's Market.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK. June 27.—An impressive rally in stock prices in the face of a further advance in call money rates to 7½ per cent the highest level in seven years, overshadowed all other developments in today's financial markets. Prices started forward at the opening, hesitated a bit when the call money renewal rate was fixed at 7 per cent, as against 6½ yesterday, then moved up again, backed down a few points when banks called $20,000,000 in loans and sent the rate to 7¾ per cent, and then swept forward to new high levels for the day.

Final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains of 1 to 5 points in the active industrials and rails, and of 1 to 12 points in the scattering assortment of specialties. Total sales crossed the 2,000,000-share mark for the first time since Wednesday.

High money rates are expected to continue over the week-end, and possibly until nearly the middle of next month. Passing of the heavy month-end demand for funds is likely to be followed by heavy withdrawals of cash for the Fourth of July holiday. The weekly Federal Reserve report of brokers' loans to be issued after the close of the market is expected to show a further decrease, preliminary estimates ranging from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000.

General Motors Higher.

Weekly steel reviews reported that steel consumption was holding up better than had been expected, but the price of pig iron has fallen to the lowest level since 1915. U. S. Steel common and several of the so-called independent steel shares were in good demand. Copper also was up with Greene Cananea, closing 6 points higher at 196¾, as the leader.

General Motors ran nearly 5 points to 180 and closed within a small range of the top of the Cice Threshing, Commercial Solvents, Dupont, Electric Auto Lite, General Outdoors, Advertising certificates, Johns-Manville, Montana Power, National Tea, Pressed Steel Car preferred, Rossia Insurance and Warren Bros. were bid up to 5 to 10 points, many of them at the expense of an over-crowded short interest.

Reined weakness of U. S. Rubber common carried that stock down to 27, the lowest in several years.

Dalaware & Hudson dropped more than 4 points but most of the other rails tended higher. Texas & Pacific touched another new record high at 155¾ and then slipped back to 155.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, although higher rates on brokers' borrowings were reported from Boston and Chicago.

Exchange Market Irregular.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Sterling cables were quoted about 7½ lower around 48.875, but French francs held firm just above 3.93.

Cotton advanced 5¢ to 79¢ a bushel.

CURB IS MORE ACTIVE

WITH PRICE ADVANCES

NEW YORK. June 27.—The curb market today celebrated its seventh anniversary with a general gain of 10 points, the last few days having been a lullary of the past few days. Trading was very heavy, but prices advanced in every group except the utilities which were up only 1 point, call money to 7½ per cent having ruled the afternoon, but most gains were held.

Among the active issues, the shares of Aluminum shares, Aluminums, Ltd., soared 10 points to 100, while the shares of Canadian Pac. advanced about 9 points with Borden, Aluminum made a fractional gain chain across, while Borden, Aluminum moving up 10 points and Standard Granite and Standard Alumina shares were in demand. Auburn, Auto, and Caterpillar, Director, G and Sparks, Wilder, Mining stocks were among the leaders of the market, with Newmont and Hudson Bay closing at 100 and 101, respectively, up 10 and 12 points. Northern closed unchanged. Other stocks, such as the shares of Borden, which reached a new top at 79¾, Borden, New York, Joe Cresson, Lethbridge Coal, Palmolive, Niles, and the like, also made gains, while Dodge, which counted 34 million shares outstanding, easily exceeded its gain at a point, causing 13 points net and the new 8. Quaker Oats, and the like, also advanced more than a point each.

To Distribute Part of Judgment.

NEW YORK. June 27.—Atlantic, with oil Corporation has received $1,779,921 from the Government in payment of a judgment against it. The Atlantic, like other oil companies, has been unable to pay its debts, and the court has ordered that the company pay a distribution to stockholders in a portion of the proceeds.

CALL MONEY TOP SINCE JUNE 1921

Rally in Stock Prices in Face of Further Advance in Rates Overshadows All Other Developments in Day's Market.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK. June 27.—An impressive rally in stock prices in the face of a further advance in call money rates to 7½ per cent, the highest level in seven years, overshadowed all other developments in today's financial markets. Prices started forward at the opening, hesitated a bit when the call money rate renewal was fixed at 7 per cent, as against 6½ yesterday, then moved up again, backed down a few points when banks called a new point when banks called a $20,000,000 in loans and sent the rate to 7½ per cent, and then swept forward to new high levels for the day.

Final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains of 1 to 5 points in the active industrials and rails, and 6 to 12 points in a scattering assortment of specialties. Total sales crossed the 2,000,000-share mark for the first time since Wednesday.

High money rates are expected to continue over the week-end, and possibly until nearly the middle of next month. Passing of the heavy month-end demand for funds is likely to be followed by heavy withdrawals of cash for the Fourth of July holiday. The weekly Federal Reserve report of brokers' loans to be issued after the close of the market is expected to show a further decrease, preliminary estimates ranging from $25,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Automobile Motors Higher.

Weekend stock trade reviews reported that steel companies were holding up better than had been expected, but the price of pig iron has fallen to the lowest level since 1915. U. S. Steel common and several of the so-called independent steel shares were in good demand. Coppers also were up with Greene Cananee closing 6 points higher at 196½, as the leader.

General Motors ran up nearly 5 points to 180 and closed within a small fraction of the top. Case Threshing, Commercial Solvents, Dupont, Electric Auto Lite, General Outdoor Advertising certificates, Johns-Manville, Montana Power, National Tea, Pressed Steel Car preferred, Rossia Insurance and Warren Bros. were bid up 5 to 12 points, many of them at the expense of an over-crowded short interest.

Renewed weakness of U. S. Rubber common carried that stock down to 27, the lowest in several years.

Delaware & Hudson dropped more than 4 points but most of the other rails tended higher. Texas & Pacific touched another new record at 155½ and then slipped back to 153.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged, although higher rates on brokers' borrowings were reported from Boston and Chicago.

Exchange Market Irregular.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Steel cables were quoted about 3¢ lower around $4.87½, but French francs held firm just above 2.33c.

Cotton advanced 50c to 75c a bale.

CURB IS MORE ACTIVE

WITH PRICE ADVANCES

NEW YORK. June 27.—The curb market today celebrated its seventh anniversary with a sharp advance, the high of the past few days. Trading was not exactly heavy, but prices advanced in almost every group except the utility companies, which were virtually even. The general market rate to 7½ per cent tenor, though not most gains were made in the afternoon, but most gains were made in the morning. The price of aluminum shares, Aluminum, Ltd., soared advanced about 5 points, while Aluminum Co. advanced about 3 points with the market turned easier today under reduced selling pressure. The market seemed to be checked by a more favorable position of the recent buyers, and the market became more toward noon with October easing off to 100. The market points of yesterday's closing quotation, the reaction with the midday market, ruling about six to seven points no higher.

Mining stocks were among the leaders of the advance, Hill, Newman and Hudson, closing high, while others, like Noranda, closed unchanged.

W. Arthur Stickney, which reached a new top at 79½, Hudson, New York Cream, Lead Coal, Palermo, Nile, Memphis, and the Lakes Dredge Bridge, which soared 54 cents, were the new leaders. Canada Italy extended its gain again led the advance in the oil groups, particularly gasoline, 13½ points net and the next day. The H. H. Clark and Connelly advanced more than a point each.

To Distribute Part of Judgment.

NEW YORK. June 27.—Atlantic, Ltd., Corporation has received $1,729,902 from the Court of Claims, the indemnity awarded by the Court of Claims. Directors plan a distribution to stockholders of a portion of the proceeds.

LIEUT. GAVIN UNOFFICIALLY
SETS NEW ALTITUDE RECORD

Goes to More Than 16,500 Feet in Seaplane With 4400-Pound Load.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—Lieut. Arthur Gavin, piloting the navy seaplane PN-12, set a new unofficial record for class C ships yesterday when he reached an altitude of more than 16,500 feet. The seaplane carried a useful load of 2000 pounds (4400 pounds).

Gavin kept the plane airtight for several hours. It is designed to carry and discharge torpedoes.

The height attained will now be announced officially until the barograph has been calibrated in Washington by the National Aeronautical Association. The existing record for the same type plane and carrying a similar load is 15,268 feet.

I'LL TELL
THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara.

THE CHAIN LETTER INDUSTRY. AMERICA'S leading industry right now is writing chain letters. Starting in a small way in 1920, an American naval officer in the Far East conceived the original chain letter, affixed a cent stamp and sent it on its way. From this infant beginning the great chain letter industry grew. Today 50,000,000 persons are engaged, either on part or whole time, in answering chain letters, and it is the largest single enterprise in the world. Anyone who had bought a single share of original chain letter stock would be worth $500,000,000,000 in good luck today.

So far as current business and future prospects are concerned, the chain letter business has it all over General Motors and United States Steel. For whereas General Motors is trying to get every family to own two cars instead of one, the chain letter industry persuades each customer to write from three to nine chain letters right away. These are put into production immediately, as the good luck can shaft will break down or burn out a cylinder or something unless the letters are posted within 24 hours.

The turnover in the chain letter business is also tremendous. There is practically no market for second-hand or used chain letters. Consequently, they are thrown in the waste basket after the first reading, if not sooner, instead of being traded in. The result is that nothing but new, shiny chain letters are gilding through the mails all the time.

Here is the way the old Model T chain letter used to read:

"Dear Friend—This chain was started by an American naval officer in the Far East *** don't delay *** nine other friends *** within 24 hours *** lots of good luck *** If you fail ***"

Well, inside of six weeks this Model T chain letter had the Christmas greeting card business licked in volume of turnover and uselessness. Today it takes 47,000,000,000 acres of Newfoundland forests to supply stationery for chain letters alone. If it keeps up at its present rate, in five years there won't be enough paper left to print comic sections for the Sunday newspapers.

Something has got to be done and be done quickly. So we have started an opposition bad luck chain. You can get in on this immediately and grab your share of hard luck. There is no entrance fee or set of stiff requirements. All you have to be is sick and tired of receiving chain letters that threaten you with apoplexy, leprosy or acute indigestion unless you write out eight copies and fly to the nearest mail box.

Here is the letter we have devised as an antidote:

"Dear Enemy—This chain was started by an American sailor in Fall River, Mass., and I am sending you a copy for bad luck. Send six copies of this as soon as possible to the nearest fireplace or furnace, light a match to them and see what will happen on the fourth day. Follow these directions implicitly. If you break this chain you are liable to have good luck."

"HERMAN NLTICH."

If you can get enough people to join this chain of bad luck, we will have a membership larger than the Elks or the Red Men, all the Newfoundland forests will be saved and the comic sections will be preserved. Join now!

Kitchen Kinks.

A spoonful of chopped meat makes the omelet more interesting.

Carrots and onions are delicious roasted with the roast of beef.

Iced tea is the basis for a great many delicious combinations of punch.

Grated cheese served on top of the cream soup makes a more nourishing dish.

A tempting spread of English toasted muffins consists of honey and creamed cheese.

If a number of sandwiches are left over from the buffet supper, toast them next day for lunch.

Do not add sugar to your apple sauce until it is removed from the fire if you wish it to remain light in color.

Raisin Cake.

Cover 1 pound seeded raisins with water and let simmer for 15 minutes. Drain. Then add 1 cup water back again. Mix together ½ cup butter, 3 cups sugar, 1 tea-spoonful salt, 1 tea-spoonful each of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves, 2 table-spoonfuls cream, 1 tea-spoonful soda dissolved in a little water. Now add raisins and water and then add 4 cups flour. Bake slowly for 1 hour.

A Cleaner and Polisher. Oak floors and other woodwork can very easily and economically be cleaned and polished by the use of equal parts of vinegar, sweet oil and turpentine. These ingredients can be purchased at any paint store.

In this preparation the vinegar eats the dirt, the sweet oil adds luster and the turpentine acts as a dryer.

PETER UNDERSTANDS.

Sometimes things become so plain, You need not bother to explain.—Mrs. Peter Rabbit.

"Where were you?" he demanded

PETER RABBIT had left the dear Old Briar-patch a little bit out of sorts. It seemed to him that he had been sadly neglected by Little Mrs. Peter. He was still out of sorts when he reached the Green Forest and he remained out of sorts. The result was that he didn't go back to the dear Old Briar-patch at break of day, as was his custom. He remained over in the Green Forest.

"I'll give her something to worry about," thought Peter. "Then perhaps she'll treat me better when I return."

But Peter was quite mistaken in thinking that Little Mrs. Peter was worrying about him. As a matter of fact she wasn't giving Peter a thought. She was too busy. She had too much else to think about. In fact, Mrs. Peter wasn't really aware that Peter wasn't at home. If Peter had known this, he would have been more out of sorts than he was.

Peter remained away two days. Then he decided that he had worried Little Mrs. Peter enough, so he returned to the dear Old Briar-patch. He fully expected to find Little Mrs. Peter anxiously peering out from the edge of the dear Old Briar-patch. Peter couldn't find her at all. He was the one who began to worry. The longer he looked for her the more he worried. Could she have ventured out from the dear Old Briar-patch and been caught by Reddy Fox, or Old Man Coyote, or Red-tail the Hawk? Suddenly Peter remembered the stamping signal. He stamped. In less than half a minute Little Mrs. Peter appeared from behind him.

"Peter," she cried, "I've got something to tell you."

"What?" she cried. "I've got something to show you."

"You follow me," said Little Mrs. Peter. "I've had a secret but now I'm going to show it to you."

Mrs. Peter turned and hopped away. Peter followed. Mrs. Peter finally turned down a little blind path—one of the old, old paths of the dear Old Briar-patch. It was so long since it had been in general use that Peter hadn't once thought to investigate it when he had been looking for Mrs. Peter.

"Well," said he, as Mrs. Peter stopped, "where's that secret?"

"Right there," said Mrs. Peter. Peter pointed to a little nest of grass at the head of a baby rabbit.

Peter understood then. He knew instantly why Little Mrs. Peter had

WATCHING BABY'S TEETH.

MOST parents think they have done their duty when they have brought the office through the "second summer," the end of the first teething period. The Government, however, is now taking a hand with the intention of keeping toothache from the land. This joyous condition is to be brought about by proper knowledge of what perfect teeth look like when they appear, and monthly inspection to watch every irregularity, depression, and defect in order to correct it.

Lodgment of food in any defective place ferments and forms a biting acid which at once attacks the dentine. Neglected cavities go on until they strike the vital point and serious trouble follows.

An up-to-date parent should begin with a partial diet of ground-wheat, followed by diet for the new baby with the coming of its teeth in mind. The mother's diet before baby comes should include plenty of fruit and vegetables, especially the citrus fruits.

The Government suggests that great care be taken of the first teeth even though nature will shed them in her own good time. Fill them where needed with a "soft filling" to save them until they are forced out by the newcomers. Until the wee ones can negotiate a tooth brush the office should be performed daily for them even though they are eating little or no solid foods. It is also said that our teeth do not give up their strength in them, or even to sour them by neutral processes.

African Negroes, Eskimos, American Indians and the European peasants rarely suffer from decayed teeth. Diet roughage may account for it.

Raising babies is a woman's sized job and she must work at it for not one but several years but the reward is great if the job has been well done.

Designer Sees Strong Trend Toward Taffeta and Tulle, Which Lend Themselves to the Interpretation of the Formal in Dress.

By MME. WORMSER,
Owner and Designer of Maison Cheruit.

PARIS.
FOR some considerable time a change has been expected and predicted in feminine fashions. The house of Cheruit has never produced models on the stereotyped lines that predominated during past seasons. But even working in the original manner which has always been characteristic of my house, I find that a definite change is taking place.

While keeping a very strong fashion note in all my models, I naturally design gowns that are calculated to appeal to different types of women and to various tastes. This season, however, I find there is a very strong trend toward taffeta and tulle—fabrics that have not been in the forefront of fashion for many seasons past, especially taffeta.

Smart women are now fully aware to the charm of what are known as "formal" fashions. There is no medium more suitable to the interpretation of these than taffeta. On this page you will find illustrated a taffeta evening gown and a cape cloak carried out in the same fabric.

Perhaps there is no prettier material for the summer evening gown. Obviously, dressmakers had in mind some new interpretation of this to harmonize with the new skirts that dip and trail in all directions. The conventional cloak that has been standardized for so long is not suitable, for it showed many panels and ends that appeared below its hem as if by accident. The new cape which you see illustrated on this page can be draped round the figure in a manner that leaves the new flowing lines of the skirt visible all round. The fitness of the over-cape is also very attractive with the new silhouette, and I find that my smart clients have accepted the various capes I have designed on these lines and ordered them in a variety of colorings.

The taffeta evening gown, whatever form it may take, is a delightful novelty. I do not make what is known as the conventional picture evening gown because this is a traditional acceptance of taffeta, and my habit is to design something different. The gown illustrated on this page has an asymmetrical skirt, and the effect of this is most graceful. The taffeta, though I may add that the silks we are using this season, taffeta or any other, are so soft and flexible that their folds are full of grace.

I have other taffeta gowns that are all made with full, bountiful skirts, but their length is always uneven. This is an effect which has found much favor in Paris, and I find it is being very generally adopted by my chic American and English clients who wear it with very great success.

Then there is the tulle evening gown. This has achieved a popularity during the past few months which is nothing short of astonishing. It proves that woman is nothing if not capricious, for while she is ordering what is known as "economy" colors, that is, more black, beige and neutral tints than anything else, she is indulging in the most ephemeral and delicate fabrics, which is in itself a distinct contradiction to every idea of economy; so we can only conclude that the neutral colors are being ordered because the majority of women find them the most becoming.

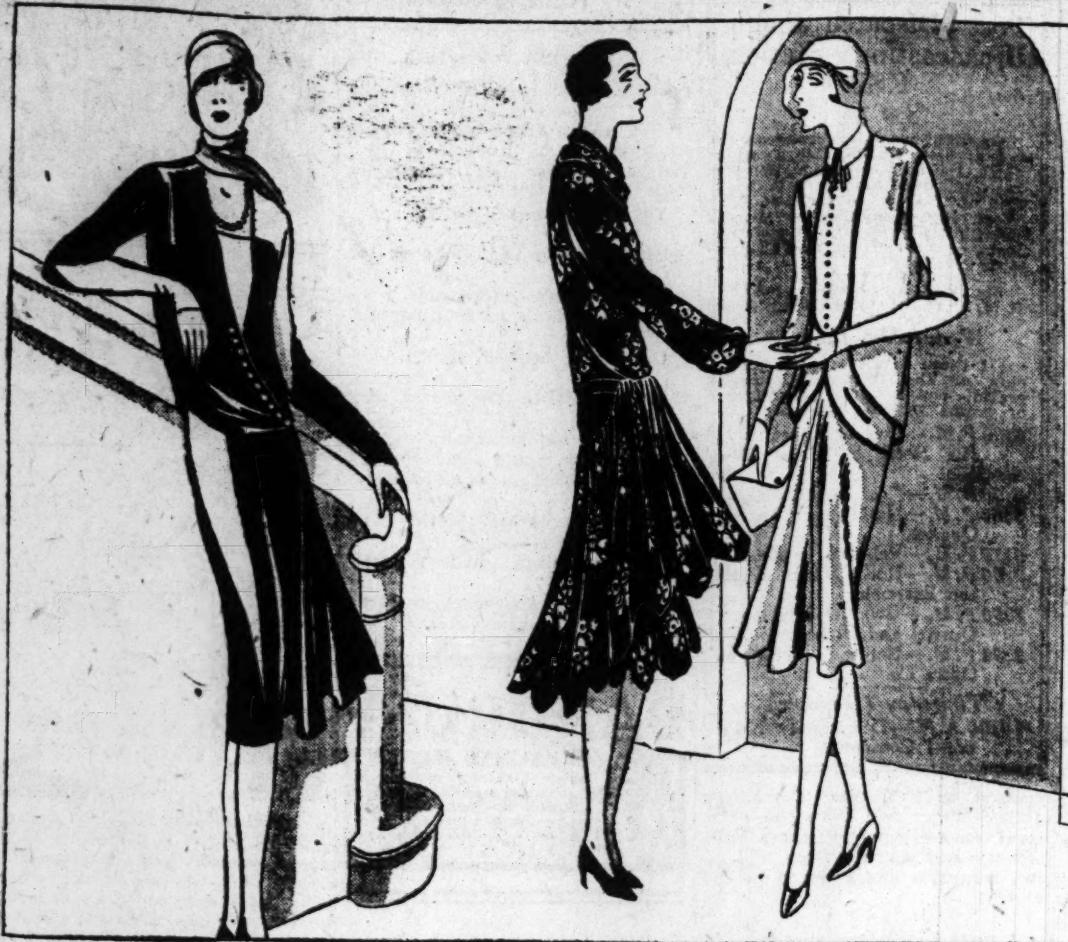

One of the most successful gowns in my summer collection is made of black tulle dotted all over with little gold pastilles. It is made very long at the back, nearly touching the ground. Its delicate flounces give it a lovely line, and the touch of gold lightens the black in a manner that has been found becoming and attractive by some of the smartest women whom it is my pleasure to dress.

CONSIDER the popularity of the tulle gowns in my collection. An evolution from the success of my sequined dinner jacket fashion launched with tulle skirts some three seasons ago. I no longer show these jackets, but clients are still ordering them. I have replaced them by gowns made entirely of tulle and by chiffon gowns embroidered with sequins. Both these are enjoying considerable success for women like the lightness of tulle and the glitter of sequin embroidery, but they refuse to abandon the usefulness of the sequined jacket. It fulfills a need which so far nothing else has been designed to replace.

This summer will undoubtedly see a great many of the perennially fashionably printed chiffons. They are perfect for summer outdoor occasions and will be just as smart for the evening as for the afternoon. There are certain habits of life in Paris for which certain types of dress are considered suitable, and as Paris sets the fashion for the world, these habits find their repetition all over the globe, even if the mode of life is different in other countries.

In Paris we always hope to be able to dine in the open air in the Bois de Boulogne in June and July. Sometimes this hope remains unfulfilled on account of vagaries of climate. However, with her usual optimism, the Parisienne orders printed chiffon evening gowns for the sylvan setting.

It is delightful for the sun-

The Parisienne invariably favors black and white for spring and early summer. Mme. Wormser has provided for this taste in a charming frock of black crepe de chine with scarf and inset panel of white.

Printed chiffon is a perennial favorite and this Cheruit model shows it in an attractive form in black with gay-colored roses of flowers. The draped neckline is original and so is the double-tier skirt.

Mme. Wormser makes the sleeveless jacket and little waistcoat of this model in white satin and lace them with gold galon. They are worn with a blouse and skirt of white cire muslin, the former with an Eton collar.

An exquisite evening cape of flame red taffeta with over-lapping scalloped edges. The collar is prolonged into a scarf tied in a bow and fullness is given to the overscap by means of rows of shirring.

It is easy to understand the popularity of taffeta when one sees this model in black with the apron-skirt tightened by frills of lace. The decolletage is becomingly cut and there are flowers at shoulder and hip.

Mme. Wormser's interpretation of the morning mode is charmingly carried out in this suit of gray flannel, trimmed with its own selvage in lines of royal blue and worn with a royal blue jumper corsage.

THREE GENERATIONS

by WARWICK DEEPING "AUTHOR OF SORRELL AND SON"

SYNOPSIS.

Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winterburn, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven, when his son Conrad sees him there. He's been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war, and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Probyn, that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance Pybus, had believed his grandfather dead, but he looks him up at the Saracen's Head without telling his parents of the meeting. When Lance returns to Cambridge for the last term he invites his grandfather to visit him.

On leaving Cambridge, Lance takes a small room in London and devotes himself to writing. His father gives him a modest allowance. He still continues to visit his grandfather secretly.

In London Lance meets Olive Gadsden, a neighbor, to whom he is attracted.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

ENCOURAGEMENT.

At the Marylebone road crossing Lance held Olive's hand, and she did not resist him. She made a dash like a couple of children in front of a red bus, and on the further pavement she betrayed a laughing breathlessness.

"Quick work! And to think that I shall have all day, or more about showing off frocks. Like this—my dear."

She walked ahead of him for a few paces, giving him an exhibition of the mannequin's walk with its little, gilding swagger swag of hips and its exotic gestures of the hands as he caught her up.

"You can stop that, Olive."

"Don't you approve?"

"It makes me say—are you going to be shut up all day?"

"THU half past five."

"And tonight? Dancing?"

"No, not tonight."

"Let's go somewhere. I'll wait for you."

"Perhaps."

"You simply must."

"Indeed!"

"Please."

She looked straight ahead down Baker street.

"Very well. We'll be good and just sit in Regent's Park, and listen to the seals in the zoo. I shall be outside the Baker street tube at six."

"That's great of you."

"Don't keep me waiting. I don't wait."

"Do you think I shall?"

But at the corner of Chalfont street she told him to turn back. She was very determined about it.

"I don't allow men to hang around my place of business, ladies. It isn't done. So—remember."

He stood looking at her with a kind of smiling yet serious ardor.

"All right. I think I approve."

When he had left her he did not know what to do with himself. In fact there seemed to be nothing worth doing until he saw her again.

He was spurred.

He quickened his pace. It occurred to him that he had good cause to go and see John Richmond, and to put his case into Richmond's hands. Richmond would help him. The May sunshines had a new urgency, the scattered gold, the goblin gold for which a young man's hands might begin to grope.

He found himself in the yard of Blair & Donisthorpe's historic house. Vans were delivering papers, or removing packages of books and periodicals. A porter, with the face of a sat, blundered into Lance on the narrow sidewalk, glared at him with blear hostility.

"Excuse, mind yourself."

He made a movement as of dusting his sleeve. Demands, handling the papers and packages, received more money for his brainless job than did many of his authors. The commissioner in charge of the door had known discipline and gentlemen. Lance's card was handed to a flapper.

"Will you take chair in the waiting room, sir?"

Lance sat down in the little tank of a room. He glanced at the magazines on the wall with the names of popular stars announced upon their bright covers. The house of Blair & Donisthorpe had vastness. He could hear the pulsing of machines, while he felt rather like a stock fish in a tank waiting for someone to fish him out of his obscurity. But what did it matter? At 6 o'clock he was meeting Olive Gadsden.

The flapper returned.

"Mr. Richmond'll see you. Come upstairs."

He was led up stone stairs and into rooms into which people popped through glazed doors. The flapper, with an air of stodgy boredom, passed him in to Richmond's secretary.

Lance smiled at her.

"Good morning, Miss Vincent."

His smile was returned, and it was the smile of a woman who worked. Miss Vincent was big and fair and deliberate, with a face that was wide open to you, and eyes that were not to be begged. Richmond always said of her that she was the best secretary in London, and the only being who knew when he was angry and when he was pretending.

"Mr. Richmond's engaged for a minute. Please come in and wait."

"It's good of him to see me. I won't keep him five minutes."

Miss Vincent, returning to her desk and her labors, gave him a

"I think I can do it. It's very good of you."

kind of mother's look, much the look she would sometimes lay upon the crown of Richmond's big head.

"You won't mind if I go on working?"

"I should feel wrong here if you didn't."

At the end of two minutes Richmond's bell rang, and Lance was allowed into the great man's inner room. For John Richmond was a great man. You would find him as Lance found him, sitting squarely and heavily behind his desk, and ready to look at you with curt blue eyes from behind rimmed spectacles.

"I'm sure you're young, but you don't matter. Look at Arden and Margaret Kennedy. It's their day. What's your idea?"

"To live on short stories and articles until my novel?"

"You believe in it, do you?"

"I do. sir. It's not conceit. I believe I have the stuff in me."

Richmond returned to his chair. He liked to walk about the big room when he was talking to particular people.

"Quite. What's the matter with your father?"

"Paternal curiosity, I think. I'm to find my own feet, or go into business."

"Of course you're young, but youth doesn't matter. Look at Arden and Margaret Kennedy. It's their day. What's your idea?"

"To live on short stories and articles until my novel?"

"You do better let me see it."

"I don't mind, sir. I would rather finish it before you see it. You see—"

"Quite. What's the matter with your father?"

"Paternal curiosity, I think. I'm to find my own feet, or go into business."

"You do better let me see it."

"Look here, Pybus. You must promise me that I shall see the whole of that novel, say, by the end of September."

"I think I can do it. It's very good of you."

"Rot. It's my business. And I like me three short stories. If I like them I'll start you with an order for two a month, at eight guineas apiece. Our magazines eat up stories by the hundred."

"It's really awfully good of you, sir."

"Hold on. Wait till you see whether I like your tales, my lad. If they turn out as good as those London sketches of yours, you'll like me."

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

J. J.—Write the Adjutant-General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C., for information about West Point.

T. A. F.—The American Game Protective and Prohibition Service Building is located at 2273 Woolworth Bldg., N. Y. C. according to the World Almanac list of societies in the United States. This is the National Protective League.

W. E. D.—Officers of the Missouri Highway Department, C. D. Matthews, State Engineer; R. D. Johnson, A. W. Brattain, Auditor; V. V. Terrell, Material Engineer; David J. Colyer, Superintendent of Equipment; Robert P. Campbell, Traffic Manager. There are over 1000 state engineers. The list does not include all changes of personnel since appointment.

MRS. H. D.—You may apply to the Social Service Building, 2221 Locust Street, for help with the children.

BOX—Ask the Bureau of Entomology, Department of Agriculture, Jefferson Park, Md., for information on who is vice-chairman since a change of position in the National Pest Control Association; H. H. Piepmeyer, chief engineer; Carl W. Brown, assistant chief engineer; M. S. Murphy, engineer sanitary and plains; J. Sordini, bridge engineer; W. J. Sordini.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

M. H. G.—You can sue the tenement owner if he fails to pay his rent and you have the case on a percentage basis, plus a small suit cost.

GUS—To answer your question as you ask it would be that you could "have the home in your home," but you cannot legally do it. If you do, it will not give you claim to a child's share of all the property which would be owned jointly by him and your stepmother.

F. J. B. R. S.—It is necessary for a Missouri corporation to be registered in all states where it does business if it is to do business or warehouse in such state. Taxes necessary to be reported (2) Taxes necessary to be reported (3) It is best to consult a lawyer for information on the above.

KIRK—The organization at 1815 Carr Street is the Humane Society of Missouri. You may see many members of the society who are members of Missouri.

MELBA—The cheapest thing to do would be for you to arrange it above.

CONSTANT SUBSCRIBER—As a proper answer to your inquiry in enclosed diet list, send stamped, addressed envelope, referring to Constant.

J. C. A.—Names of specialists are never published, but will be mailed to you if you will write asking for names of specific fields in which they practice.

A. R. C. FAMILY—The municipal clinic on the first floor of Municipal Office Building, Franklin and Market streets, gives free treatment for the trouble mentioned. For treatment at any hospital inquire there.

CARLIE—The blood test would determine whether or not you are cured. It is a well-established fact that one infected as you mention may become the mother of healthy and normal offspring. A blood test is advisable, however, because if it was found positive, you would be advised to undergo treatment.

HOBSON—It is not likely that use of the false seed tea will be harmful in any way, but that its use could be discontinued indefinitely. Much relief often follows the taking in such cases of Banisterin, in suggested treatments.

PERPLEXED—The infection you mention may be gotten in different ways, far from the way by which the specific germ or virus comes in contact with a mucous surface unprotected. It is also possible for one to have such infection and not be aware of anything wrong, although it may be a cause of disease.

THANK YOU—(1) It is often associated with digestive and kidney trouble, which might in some cases be the basic cause. (2) The X-ray is often used successfully.

X-ray is applied only by those who are qualified to do so. It involves exposure to certain light rays and the exclusion of others. (4) Since no cure can be guaranteed, no guarantee can be given.

HOBBIN—It is not likely that use of the false seed tea will be harmful in any way, but that its use could be discontinued indefinitely. Much relief often follows the taking in such cases of Banisterin, in suggested treatments.

ADISH FOR TODAY

Veal Cutlet.

THERE are several ways of cooking the cutlet. First we will give the "down East" way. Have a frying pan hot and put into it a lump of butter and when melted lay in the cutlet, cover and steam two or three minutes, then turn and cook gently for five minutes. Turn and cook five minutes more, then uncover and cook a delicate brown on both sides. Lift to a hot plate and turn into the pan a cupful and a half of rich milk; after a heavy tablespoonful of flour has been worked into the fat in the pan and cooked a couple of minutes. Stir as the gravy thickens and becomes pale brown in color. Then strain it over the cutlet, garnish with parsley and serve. The German way is to cut the cutlets into strips one and a half inches wide, dip them in beaten egg then in fine seasoned crumbs and fry in a hot pan with melted butter or other fat. Lay on a hot dish and turn over a smooth, well-seasoned tomato sauce. Again, the cutlet may be cut thinner than for frying and be broiled delicately. When done place on a hot dish, butter well and dust with pepper and salt. Or it may be spread with a savory stuffing and rolled, tied and roasted, served covered with a sauce made of the dish gravy.

Never heat paraffin to the smoking stage. It is very apt to separate from the sides of the jelly tumblers if allowed to reach a high temperature.

'LAW ENF
ALDERMEN REJECT
I.T.S. FRANCHISE
IN PRESENT FORM

Vote 23 to 3 to Send It Back to Committee, Thus Deferring Action on It Until Fall

THEY OPPOSE GRADE CROSSING AT CASS

Company's Threat to Withdraw Emphasized by Udell, Only Member to Speak in Its Behalf

The Board of Aldermen, in special session, voted 23 to 3 today to deny the Illinois Terminal System the 50-year franchise for which it is asking until some means of eliminating the objectionable grade crossing at Cass avenue can be devised.

The franchise was sent back to the public utilities committee for further consideration. It cannot come up again until autumn when the Board will reconvene after its summer vacation.

H. I. Green, counsel for the Illinois Terminal System, who has conducted the negotiations for a franchise, has said that unless granted at this time, the company would not again apply for it. The Aldermen were of the opinion that the necessity for the company to get a freight entrance to St. Louis would result in continued discussions.

An Exchange of Compliments.

Green remarked to Albert I. Schmidt, counsel for the North St. Louis Business Men's Association and the Cass Avenue Bank, that are leading the fight against the Cass avenue grade crossing: "Well, North St. Louis can expect to have freight moving through its streets for the next 23 years (the life of the company's present franchise)."

Schmidt retorted: "You haven't been in a fight yet, Mr. Green." As is known, the present franchise of the company does not permit it to haul freight on its tracks in the streets in North St. Louis, and the road has been bootlegging freight for years in trains containing as many as 10 cars. North St. Louis, so far, has not objected to the freight hauling, but Schmidt said that if it were increased so as to menace public safety an appeal would be taken to forbid its movement.

Alderman Studt, in moving to recommit the franchise, when it came up for final passage, said that an uproar had been raised over the fact that the franchiser would permit a grade crossing at Cass avenue, an important east and west street, which carries two street car tracks and about 4500 vehicles during each business day.

"We don't want to drive this company out of St. Louis; we want to help it," Studt said, "but we must have more time to consider this objectionable grade crossing."

Details of Opposition.

Alderman Wimer, a member of the public utilities committee, said that he was against the franchise unless it met with approval of the Aldermen in the North St. Louis wards affected. Alderman Hoofle, William F. Niedersecker, and Otto Schaeffer, all of whom have come to me and said that the franchise as drawn does not meet their approval and I request that it be sent back to my committee for further consideration," he announced.

A similar attitude was expressed by Alderman Wimer. The only Alderman to speak for immediate passage was Alderman Udell, who said that the company would abandon its plans for St. Louis. He said North St. Louis would have 20 grade crossings instead of three, if the franchiser was denied.

The votes against recommitment were cast by August H. Niedersecker, Udell and Wimer.

Bringing Up Father stands. After many revisions made in an effort to meet obvious objections, the franchiser, as acted upon by the Aldermen today, permitted the railroad to build a subway terminal at Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue, a two-track subway northward from this terminal to Cass avenue, where the tracks would emerge and cross three streets at grade before descending to an elevated road carrying them to a connection with the McKinley Bridge via Tenth Street, North Market street and levee.
